Shah Mahmud
AH1135-1137 / 1722-1725AD

Types for this reign:

A. Couplet obverse, with mint & date. Reverse has the Sunni Kalima.

Sekkeh zad as mashreq-e Iran cho qors-e aftab Shah Mahmud-e Jahangir-e siyadat-ansab.

"From the east of Iran, Shah Mahmud, the world- conqueror of Sayyid descent, has struck coin like (i.e., as brilliant as) the solar disk."

B. As type A, but a different couplet:

Foru ravad be-zamin mah o aftab-e monir za reshk-e sekkeye Mahmud Shah-e alamgir.

"The moon and the shining sun shall set, out of envy of the coin of Mahmud Shah the world conqueror."

C. As type A, but a different couplet:

Cho mehr o mah zar-e shahanshahi mahmud-e alam shod keh naqd-e qalbash az feyz-e Khoda az ghash mossalam shod.

"Like the sun and the moon, the imperial precious metal is praised throughout the world, for the currency of his (Mahmud's) heart has, by the benevolence of God, been cleansed of impurity." (There are numerous puns in this distich that do not survive translation).

D. As type A, but different couplet:

Din-e Haqqra sekkeh bar zar kard az hokm-e Elah Aqebat Mahmud bashad Padshah-e din-e Khoda.

"At God's command, he struck coin in precious metal for the sake of the True Religion. In the end, Mahmud shall be king in accordance with God's Religion." The second part may also be translated, "In the end, the King of the Religion of God (i.e., Ali ibn Abi Talib) shall be praised," meaning that the Shiite sect shall ultimately prevail. The use of puns and word plays in Persian poetry is renowned. As a result, most of the elegance and humor of such verse is lost in translation.

E. As type A, but only a half-couplet, still only tentatively read:

Be Mahmud-e arshad dad Khoda Shahi.

"To Mahmud, the Elder, did God grant kingship." There appears to be one additional word, still not deciphered, in this text.

Tahmasp II

AH1135-1145 / 1722-1732AD

Types for this reign:

A. Obverse couplet, together with mint and date, the mint in the bottom line, the date in various locations in the field. Reverse has the Shiite formula, usually with the names of the 12 Imams in a circular marginal legend around.

Be-giti sekke-ye sahebqerani Zad az toufiq-e haqq Tahmasp-e thani

"By the grace of God, Tahmasp the Second struck the sahebqerani coin throughout the world."

B. Obverse simple inscription, with mint below, and date in field. Reverse as type A, always with the names of the Imams. Used only at Yazd Mint.

Tahmasp-e Ghazi Bande-ye Shah-e Velayat

"Tahmasp the Second, servant of the king of the Velayat (i.e., Ali ibn Abi Talib)".

C. Obverse simple inscription, mint and date below. Reverse as type A, but without names of the Imams. Used only at Kirman Mint.

Gholam-e Shah-e Din Tahmasp-e Thani

"Tahmasp the Second, servant of the king of faith"

Again a reference to Tahmasp's Shiite belief, as the "king of faith" is yet another epithet of Ali ibn Abi Talib.

D. Obverse couplet, with mint and date below as usual. Reverse as type A, with the names of the Imams.

Sekkeh zad Tahmasp-e Thani bar zar-e kamel-'ayyar La fata illa 'Ali la seyf ella Zolfegar

"Tahmasp the Second struck coin in precious metal of full alloy. There is no other warrior like Ali (ibn Abi Talib), no other sword like Zolfeqar (the legendary sword used by Ali ibn Abi Talib)".

Ashraf

AH1137-1142 / 1725-1729AD

Types for this reign:

A. Obverse couplet, with mint below. Reverse, Sunni Kalima, together with date.

Be-Ashrafi athar-e nam-e anjenab rasid Sharaf za sekke-ye Ashraf bar aftab rasid.

"As the name of that noble person (Ashraf) was traced upon the ashrafi (coin), from the coin of Ashraf, (his) honor surpassed (that of) the sun".

B. Similar to type A, but a different couplet:

Khor o mah chun tala o noqreh az feyzash monavvar shod Sharaf bar aftab az name-e Ashraf sekkeh bar zar shod.

"The sun and moon, like gold and silver, were illuminated by his (Ashraf's) generosity. From the name Ashraf, coin in precious metal gained honor above (that of) the sun.

C. Similar to type A, but different couplet. The accessional year 1137 is normally added to the reverse, with the actual year of issue appearing on the obverse.

Az altaf-e Shah Ashraf-e haqq-shenas be-zar naqsh shod sekke-ye Char Yar.

"Courtesy of the rights-respecting Shah Ashraf, the coin of the Four Friends was struck in precious metal." The Four Friends are the four caliphs who followed the death of the Prophet Muhammad, who are honored by Sunnis in their sectarian opposition to the Shiites. This difficult couplet contains numerous untranslatable puns.

D. Obverse couplet, with date below. Reverse, short inscription as on the Mughal coinage, including the mint, its epithetical designation, and the accessional date of Shah Ashraf. Obverse couplet:

Dast-zad bar jalalaho bovad gonah Dad-e Taghyir-e sekke-ye Ashraf Shah.

"The crime of counterfeiting the coin of Ashraf Shah would be (tantamount to) an offence the Glorious." The last part could equally well be translated as "an attack against his glory," either the Glory of God or the glory of Ashraf Shah. All these meanings are intended in the Persian text. Still other puns can be found in this distich. The reverse inscription is:

Jolus-e meymanat-ma nus-e Dar os-Saltanat Isfahan 1137.

"1137, (year of) the auspicious enthronement, at the Abode of the Sultanate, Isfahan".

Nadir Shah
AH1142-1148 / 1729-1735AD

As viceroy in the eastern provinces.

Nadir Shah was the commanding general and engineer of the defeat of the Afghans under Shah Ashraf at Isfahan in AH1142/1729. He was granted autonomy in Khorasan in reward for that service. Other provinces were later added to his viceregency.

There is only one type, with the following couplet on the obverse, the Shiite formula on the reverse.

Az Khorasan sekkeh bar zar shod be-toufiq-e Khoda Nosrat o emdad-e Shah-e Din Ali-ye Musa Reza.

"From Khorasan, the coin of precious metal became, by the grace of God, succor and reinforcements for the King of the Religion, Ali, son of Musa, (known as) Reza."

The reference is to the 8th Imam of the Twelver sect of Shiites.

Shah Abbas III
AH1145-1148 / 1732-1736AD

There is only one type for this reign, bearing the following couplet:

Sekkeh bar zar zad be-toufiq-e elahi dar jahan Zell-e Haqq Abbas-e thaleth thani sahebqeran.

"The shadow of God (on earth), Abbas the Third, the second Sahebqeran, struck coin in precious metal in the world, by divine grace." Sahebqeran is an astrological term referring to a person born under certain conjunctions and was originally assumed by the Mongol conqueror Tamerlane in the 14th century. Shah Abbas III, who was a child and the puppet of the leading general (the future Nadir Shah), was hardly a conqueror by any stretch of the imagination. The title of "shadow of God on earth" was commonly adopted.

Nadir Shah
AH1148-1160 / 1736-1747AD

Types for this reign:

A. (Toughra type) Couplet on obverse, as below, sometimes, with mint & date. Reverse chronogram in the form of a toughra, usually with the date below, and with mint when mint not on obverse.

Sekkeh bar zar kard nam-e saltanat-ra dar jahan Nader-e Iran-zamin o Khosrov-e Giti-setan.

"The Nadir of the land of Iran, the Caesar who seizes the world, coin in precious metal broadcast the name of this sultanate (throughout) the world." Nadir means "rare" "unparalleled," whence the pun. The reverse chronogram, in Arabic, is as follows:

Be-tarikh-e al-khayr fi ma waqa.

"In the year, what has happened is good." According to the abjad system of date reckoning, the total values of the letters in this expression 1148.

B. (Julus type). Obverse couplet as type A, with mint and date below. Reverse has the same chronogram, not in the form of a toughra, within a circular border, with several additional words:

Tarikh-e jolus-e meymanat-ma'nus-e al-khayr fi ma waqa'.

"In the year of the auspicious enthronement, 'what has happened good." The year AH1148 is often cited on the reverse, with the actual date of issue on the obverse.

C. Obverse al-soltan Nader and reverse the benediction khalad Allah mulkahu.

"May God prolong his kingship," together with mint and date.

D.1 Couplet obverse, with the same reverse as type C (usually without the benediction).

Hast Soltan bar salatin-e jahan Shah-e Shahan Nader-e sahebqeran.

"The shah of shahs, Nadir, the sahebqeran, is sultan over the sultans of the world."

D.2 Same as D.1 but with benediction khalad Allah mulkahu added to reverse (used only in Afghanistan and India).

E. Inscriptional obverse. Reverse as Type F. Sekke-ye mobarak-e padshah-e ghazi Nader Shah, Fortunate coin of the victorious shah Nader shah.

F. couplet obverse. Reverse as the standard jolus reverse of the 18th century of the Mughal Empire, with mint and regnal year. Dadeh zib-e tazeh-ye ru bar mehr o mah / as sekke-ye Nader Shah-e giti-panah, Given beauth fresh of face on the sun and moon, By the die of Nadir Shah, the asylum of the World.

Adel Shah (Ali)
AH1160-1161 / 1747-1748AD

Types for this reign:

A. Obverse short couplet, as below, with mint below, and date, if any, somewhere in the field. Reverse, the Shiite formula, sometimes with the names of the 12 Imams in a surrounding marginal legend.

Gasht rayej be-hokm-e Lam-Yazli Sekke-ye Saltanat be-nam-e Ali.

"By the order of the Eternal One, the coin of the sultanate has become current in the name of Ali." Ali was another name of Adel Shah.

On some examples, the word be-hokm-e is replaced by be-amr-e, with the same meaning.

B. Obverse long couplet, with mint and date below. Reverse, the Shiite formula.

Za ba'd-e dorr-e douran-e edalat sekke bar zar shod Be-nam-e shah-e din Soltan Ali alam monavvar shod.

"After the pearl of the age of justice (i.e., Nadir Shah), coin was struck in precious metal. In the name of the king of the faith, Sultan Ali, the world was illuminated." This difficult passage is replete with wordplays lost in translation. Sultan Ali here refers simultaneously to Adel Shah himself, to Ali ibn Abi Talib, and to the eighth Shiite Imam (to whom the evocation on type C).

C. Obverse evocation of the eighth Imam, Ya 'Ali ebn-e Musa al-Reza, O Ali, son of Musa, al-Reza." Reverse as type A. Type C is anonymous, and many have been struck largely during the interregnum of a couple months that followed the overthrow of Adel Shah.

Shahrukh, King of Iran
AH1161-1163 / 1748-1749AD

Type for this ruler's 1st reign:

B. Obverse, couplet as below. Reverse mint and date, usually with the mint epithet as well.

Sekke zad dar jahan be-hokm-e Khoda Shahrokh kalb-e astan-e Reza.

"Shahrukh, the dog at the doorstep of Reza, struck coin in the world by God's command". The reference to the "dog" is self-effacing, and refers to the idea that Shahrukh is devoted to Reza, the eighth Imam, whose tomb is at Mashhad, Shahrukh's capital. This type was struck at various northwestern mints as late as AH1170.

C. Obverse, the name al-Sultan Shahrokh. Reverse, the benediction, mint and date, as on Nadir Shah's type C.

Shah Isma'il III
AH1163-1169 / 1750-1756AD

Types for this ruler's 3rd Reign:

E. As B, but a different couplet. Struck only at Mashhad. Sekkeh zad az sa'y-e nader-e thani sahebqeran. Kalb-e soltan-e Khorasan Shahrokh shah-e jahan.

"The dog of the sultan of Khorasan (i.e., the 8th Imam), Shahrukh, king of the world, has struck coin, by the efforts of Nadir, the second Sahebqiran." However, the puns and word plays enable various nuances of meaning that cannot be captured in translation.

F. Unread couplet obverse. Reverse as type E.

Azad Khan
AH1163-1170 / 1750-1757AD

Types for this reign:

A. Obverse couplet. Reverse, mint & date, usually with the mint epithet.

Ta ke azad dar jahan bashad Sekke-ye Saheb Zaman bashad.

"So long as Azad is in the world, there shall be the coin of the Master of Time." The Master of Time, Saheb, oz-Zaman, refers to the 12th Imam, who is believed to have disappeared in the 9th century, and will reappear as the Messiah at the end of time.

B. Same obverse couplet, with mint & date below. Reverse, the Sunni kalima.

C. Obverse couplet. Reverse, mint & date, usually with the mint epithet.

Ta zar o sim dar jahan bashad Sekke-ye Saheb oz-Zaman bashad.

"So long as gold and silver are in the world, there shall be the coin of the Master of Time." Note that there is no reference to Azad by name in this couplet.

D. Same obverse as C, but mint & date below obverse. Reverse, Shiite formula, with the names of the 12 Imams. Used at Qazvin only.

E. Obverse, Ya Saheb oz-Zaman, "O Master of Time." Reverse, mint and date, with mint epithet. Used only for the shahi.

F. Obverse, Udrikni ya Saheb oz-Zaman, "Give me succor, O Master of Time." Reverse, mint, date, and mint epithet. Used only for the shahi.

G. Obverse couplet, mint and date below. Reverse Shiite formula (?).

Sim o zar anche dar jahan bashad Sekke-ye Saheb oz-Zaman bashad.

"Whatever silver and gold is in the world, shall be (minted into) the coin of the Master of Time." The attribution of this type to Azad Khan is tentative. Used only at Kirman.

H. Obverse, the Sunni Kalima. Reverse, Ya saheb oz-zaman above date and mint.

Muhammad Hasan Khan

AH1163-1172 / 1750-1759AD

Until AH1168, his coins are in the name of Isma'il III, and are listed under that ruler; from AH1168-1172, he struck anonymous coinage.

Types for this reign:

A. Obverse couplet, with mint and date. Reverse, the Shiite formula, usually within a small central cartouche surrounded by a broad blank margin.

Be-zar sekkeh az meymanat zad qaza Be-nam-e 'Ali ebn-e Musa or-Reza.

"Fate has auspiciously struck coin in precious metal, in the name of Ali Reza, son of Musa, (i.e., the 8th Imam)".

B. Obverse evocation of the 8th Imam, Ya 'Ali ebn-e Musa or-Reza. Reverse, mint. Date usually on obverse. Used for the shahi only.

C. Obverse couplet, with mint and date. Reverse as type A.

Shod za yomn-e din-e haqq rayej be-toufiq-e Khoda Sekke-ye eqbal bar nam-e 'Ali ebn-e Musa ar-Reza.

"Because of the flourishing of the true religion, the coin of prosperity has become current, by God's grace, in the name of Ali Reza, son of Musa."

Karim Khan

AH1166-1193 / 1753-1779AD

All coinage of this ruler is, strictly speaking, anonymous. Most is identified by the evocation Ya Karim, which may be translated either as "O Karim" or as "O Generous One," Karim being one of the many names of God. In the type descriptions, this phrase is noted as the ruler's evocation.

Types for this reign:

A. Obverse couplet, with mint below, date somewhere in field. Reverse, the Shiite formula.

Shod aftab o mah zar o sim dar jahan Az sekke-ye Emam be-haqq Saheb oz-Zaman

"The sun and moon have become gold and silver throughout the world, from the coin of the Imam, indeed the Master of Time."

B. Same obverse couplet, but without mint. Reverse, mint and date, usually with epithet, usually in ornamental cartouche in larger field. The date may appear on either obverse or reverse, more frequently on reverse.

B*. As type B, but the ruler's evocation Ya Karim added to the obverse field in miniscule letters.

C. As type B, but the ruler's evocation is added at the top of the reverse, above the mint and date. The date may appear on obverse, on reverse, on both faces, or twice on the reverse.

D. Obverse, the Shiite formula. Reverse, mint, date, and ruler's evocation as on type C.

E. Obverse as type B. Reverse, mint and date, with epithet, in central area, with the Shiite kalima around. Used only at Qazvin.

F. Obverse, exactly as type A. Reverse, the ruler's evocation, together with the usual benedication, khalad Allah mulkahu, "May God perpetuate his kingship.

In addition, there are several local types used by mints at Ganja, Iravan, Nukhwi, Shemakhi, and Tiflis by local rulers. These are listed in Caucasia, under Russia.

Shahrukh, 3rd Reign

AH1168-1210 / 1755-1796AD

Types for this ruler's 3rd Reign:

E. As B, but a different couplet. Struck only at Mashhad.

Sekkeh zad az sa'y-e nader-e thani sahebqeran. Kalb-e soltan-e Khorasan Shahrokh shah-e jahan.

"The dog of the sultan of Khorasan (i.e., the 8th Imam), Shahrukh, king of the world, has struck coin, by the efforts of Nadir, the second Sahebqiran." However, the puns and word plays enable various nuances of meaning that cannot be captured in translation.

F. Unread couplet obverse. Reverse as type E.

Agha Muhammad Khan
AH1193-1211 / 1779-97AD

Types for this reign:
A. Obverse couplet. Reverse, mint, date, usually the epithet, and the evocation Ya Mohammad, "O Muhammad".
Be-zar o sim ta neshan bashad Sekke-ye Saheb oz-Zaman bashad.
"So long as there shall be a stamp upon gold and silver, there shall be coin of the Master of Time".
B2. As B1, but variant of the couplet:
Ta zar o sim-ra neshan bashad Sekke-ye Saheb oz-Zaman bashad.
"So long as gold and silver shall have a design, there shall be coin of the Master of Time".
B3. As B1, but variant of the couplet:
Ta zar o sim dar jahan bashad Sekke-ye Saheb oz-Zaman bashad.
"So long as there is gold and silver in the world, there shall be coin of the Master of Time".
C. Obverse couplet. Reverse, mint, date, epithet and evocation as on type B.
Shod aftab o mah zar o sim dar jahan Az sekke-ye Emam be-haqq Saheb oz-Zaman.
"The sun and moon have become gold and silver throughout the world, from the coin of the Imam, indeed the Master of Time." This is the same couplet found on most types of Karim Khan Zand and the later Zands. The type is distinguished by the evocation.
C*. As type C, but without the evocation. These are coins of the rebellion of Ahmad Khan Donboli in Azerbayjan, but are traditionally, though somewhat incorrectly, assigned to Agha Muhammad Khan.
D. Obverse, the Shiite formula. Reverse, mint, date, epithet and evocation as on type B.
E. Obverse, within ornate border, the evocation Ya Ali Vali Allah, "O Ali, Friend of God". Reverse, mint and date (no epithet), with evocation, Ya Mohammad.
NOTE: The coinage of Agha Muhammad Khan is not well understood. The types are clear, but the denominations are tentative. In all probability, there were multiple monetary systems in use in different parts of Iran during his turbulent reign. However, there is at present no clear correlation between type, mint, and denomination. The silver coinage is particularly confused. The schema offered here is tentative. The rupi is believed to have been equal to 10 shahis, with a weight of 11.5 grams. It was gradually replaced after AH1204 with a riyal, weighing 12.67 grams, but reckoned as 20 shahis, thus incorporating a significant devaluation of the shahi. A large number of coins, particularly in gold, have been published without mention of type or denomination. These have been disregarded in the following listings, which are thus quite incomplete.

Fath Ali Shah
AH1212-1250 / 1797-1834AD

Fath Ali Khan succeeded his uncle, Agha Muhammad Shah, upon the latter's death on 16 June 1797, striking coins with the nickname Baba Khan. His formal enthronement took place three months later, on 15 or 16 September 1797, at which time he received the name Fath Ali Shah. His coin types are distinguished both by inscription, calligraphy, and weight standard. As the silver and gold weight standards were not altered simultaneously, the type sequences for silver and gold differ.
Note: All coins of this and succeeding reigns for hammered coinage bear the mint & date on the reverse, the mint usually with its distinguishing epithet. Only the obverse is noted in the type descriptions.
Coinage Standards of Fath Ali Shah
NOTE: Prices for silver coins are for average strikes, with some weakness or unevenness. Poorly struck coins are worth less, well-struck and well-centered coins can be worth from 25-100% more, depending on eye appeal and ornateness of design. Gold coins are generally better struck, but really attractive strikes or fancy designs also command a premium.
NOTE: Coins without legible date are worth about half the price of the cheapest date of the mint & type. Coins without legible mint are of little value. This and the previous note apply to coins of the later rulers Muhammad Shah and Nasir al-Din Shah as well as those of Fath Ali Shah.

Silver Types:
CO (Coronation Type). Obverse, double legend: Amadeh az Fath-e 'Ali sekke be-zar-e shahi, "From Fath Ali came the die to the royal precious metals." Standard for the rial (=1250 dinars) was 11.52 g.
A. Obverse, name of ruler with title al-sultan. Standard for the rial was 10.36 g.
B. Obverse, name of ruler with the expanded title al-sultan, ibn al-sulan, "Sultan, son of the sultan." Plain backgrounds with rather thick calligraphy. Same standard as Type A.
C. Obverse, as Type B, but with floriated backgrounds and finer calligraphy. Same standard as Types A and B.
D. Obverse, as Type C, similar backgrounds & calligraphy, but standard reduced to 9.21 g for the rial.
E. Obverse, new form of the royal protocol, Fath 'Ali Shah Qajar Khusro-ve Sahebqeran, "Fath Ali Shah Qajar, Caesar, Sahebqeran (i.e., possessor of an auspicious conjunction)." The rial was abandoned except at Mashhad and replaced by a qiran (kran) of 1000 dinars weighing 6.91 g.
F. Obverse, as Type E but the final portion of the protocol is Khosro-ve Keshvarsetan, "World-conquering Caesar." Same standard as type, with which it is contemporary (1246-1250). All Type F silver coins are probably mules with obverse dies intended for the gold.There are also a number of local types, which have not been assigned type letters and are listed following the regular imperial types.
Gold Types:
R. Same as silver Type CO (Coronation Type). Standard for the toman (=10,000 dinars) is 6.14 g.
S. Inscriptions as Type A (Type S.1) or as Type B (Type S.2) same standard as Type R.
T. Inscriptions as Type B (Type T.1) or as Type C (Type T.2), based on a toman of 5.76 g. (No examples of Type T.2 with mint & date are confirmed at the present time.)
U. Inscriptions as Type C, based on a toman of 5.37 g.
V. Inscriptions as Type C, based on a toman of 4.80 g.
W. Inscriptions as Type C or D, based on a toman of 4.61 g (one mithqal weight).
X. Inscriptions as Type E (sahebqeran type), based on a toman of 4.61 g.
Y. Inscriptions as Type F (keshvarsetan type), based on a toman of 3.45 g.

Baba Khan

AH1211-1212 / 1797 -1798AD

(Fath ali before coronation.)

Baba Khan was the name used by Fath'ali Shah for about 3 months prior to his official julus, or coronation. Mint premiums as for Fath'ali Shah. All known coins of Baba Khan are dated AH1212. They fall into two standards, the first based on a Rupee of 60 Nokhod (= 11.50 g), the second on a Riyal of 54 Nokhod (= 10.40 g).

Types for this reign:

A. Obverse name and benediction, al-mulk lillah al-Sultan Baba Khan ("the kingdom is God's, Sultan Baba Khan"). Reverse, mint (sometimes with epithet) & date, with pious evocation above, al-izzat lillah, "God's is the glory".

B. Similar to type A, but without the pious evocation above the reverse. Sometimes undated. Type B coins almost always have the mint with its epithet.

C. Obverse, the Shiite formula. Reverse, mint, usually with epithet, and date. Above, in smaller letters, Baba

The Republic of Iraq, historically known as Mesopotamia, is located in the Near East and is bordered by Kuwait, Iran, Turkey, Syria, Jordan and Saudi Arabia. It has area of 167,925 sq. mi. (434,920 sq. km.) and a population of 14 million. Capital: Baghdad. The economy of Iraq is based on agriculture and petroleum. Crude oil accounted for 94 percent of the exports before the war with Iran began in 1980.

Mesopotamia was the site of a number of flourishing civilizations of antiquity - Sumeria, Assyria, Babylonia, Parthia, Persia and the Biblical cities of Ur, Ninevehand and Babylon. Desired because of its favored location, which embraced the fertile alluvial plains of the Tigris and Euphrates Rivers, Mesopotamia - 'land between the rivers'- was conquered by Cyrus the Great of Persia, Alexander of Macedonia and by Arabs who made the legendary city of Baghdad the capital of the ruling caliphate. Suleiman the Magnificent conquered Mesopotamia for Turkey in1534, and it formed part of the Ottoman Empire until 1623, and from 1638 to 1917. Great Britain, given a League of Nations mandate over the territory in 1920, recognized Iraq as a kingdom in 1922. Iraq became an independent constitutional monarchy presided over by the Hashemite family, direct descendants of the prophet Mohammed, in 1932. In 1958, the army-led revolution of July 14 overthrew the monarchy and proclaimed a republic.

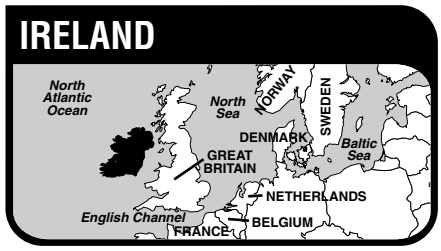
IRELAND



Ireland, the island located in the Atlantic Ocean west of Great Britain, was settled by a race of tall, red-haired Celts from Gaul about 400 BC. They assimilated the native Erainn and Picts and established a Gaelic civilization. After the arrival of St. Patrick in 432 AD, Ireland evolved into a center of Latin learning, which sent missionaries to Europe and possibly North America. In 1154, Pope Adrian IV gave all of Ireland to English King Henry II to administer as a Papal fief. Because of the enactment of anti-Catholic laws and the awarding of vast tracts of Irish land to Protestant absentee landowners, English control did not become reasonably absolute until 1800 when England and Ireland became the "United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland". Religious freedom was restored to the Irish in 1829, but agitation for political autonomy continued until the Irish Free State was established as a Dominion on Dec. 6, 1921 while Northern Ireland remained under the British rule.

Isles de France et de Bourbon, (later called Mauritius and Reunion) are located in the Indian Ocean about 500 miles east of Madagascar, were administered by France as a single colony. They utilized a common currency issue. Ownership of the isle passed to Great Britain in 1814. Isle de Bourbon, renamed Reunion in 1793, remained a French possession and is now an Overseas Department.

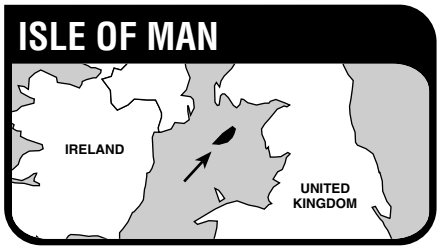
ISLE OF MAN



The Isle of Man, a dependency of the British Crown located in the Irish Sea equidistant from Ireland, Scotland and England, has an area of 227 sq. mi. (588 sq. km.) and a population of 68,000. Capital: Douglas. Agriculture, dairy farming, fishing and tourism are the chief industries.

The prevalence of prehistoric artifacts and monuments on the island give evidence that its' mild, almost sub-tropical climate was enjoyed by mankind before the dawn of history. Vikings came to the Isle of Man during the 9th century and remained until ejected by the Scottish in 1266. The island came under the protection of the British Crown in 1288, and in 1406 was granted, in perpetuity, to the earls of Derby, from whom it was inherited, 1736, by the Duke of Atholl. The British Crown purchased the rights and title in 1765; the remaining privileges of the Atholl family were transferred to the crown in 1829. The Isle of Man is ruled by its own legislative council and the House of Keys, one of the oldest legislative assemblies in the world. Acts of Parliament passed in London do not affect the island unless it is specifically mentioned.

CAGLIARI

The ancient city of Calaris, founded by the Phoenicians about 540 BC on the south coast of Sardinia, was devastated by the Muslims during the period of their conquests. In 1323, Jaime II of Aragon (1291-1327) reconquered the island and began a long period of Spanish rule. Cagliari passed to the control of Savoy in 1720.

CASALE

Of very ancient origin, the city of Casale, 40 miles (67 kilometers) southwest of Milan, became the capital of Monferrat, a marquisate erected in 967 by Emperor Otto I (936-73). The first ruling dynasty of the Aleramidi died out in 1305 and Casale passed to the Paleologi, which in turn became extinct in the male line in 1533. The marchese was raised to the rank of Prince of the Empire in 1464. Emperor Carlo V (1516-56) assigned the succession of Casale to the Gonzaga Duke of Mantua (which see), who married the daughter of the last Paleologo marchese. Austrian and Spanish forces besieged the French defenders in the city from 1628 to 1630, resulting in several issues of obsidional coinage. When a later Gonzaga ruler was accused of a felony in 1703, Emperor Leopold I (1658-1705) transferred Casale to Savoy, an act which was finalized as a part of the Treaty of Utrecht in 1713.

CASTIGLIONE DEI GATTI

More properly, the ancient Castiglione dei Pepoli, named for the illustrious family of the Pepoli, the town is located some 25 miles (41 kilometers) south-southwest of Bologna. Although the Pepoli controlled local affairs from at least the early 14th century, the lord of the town was only formally invested by Emperor Carlo IV in 1369. Emperor Leopold I reconfirmed the concession in 1700.

CISALPINE REPUBLIC

Transpadane Republic, a revolutionary state founded in northern Italy by Napoleon, came into being at Milan, Lombardy, in July 1797. It was subsequently enlarged by the addition of the Cispadine Republic and territory from the Venetian hinterlands and the Swiss Cantons of the Valtellina. It collapsed upon the conquest of Italy by an Austro-Russian army, but was restored by Napoleon in 1800.

GENOA

A seaport in Liguria, Genoa was a dominant republic and colonial power in the Middle Ages. In 1798 Napoleon remodeled it into the Ligurian Republic, and in 1805 it was incorporated in the Kingdom of Napoleon. Following a brief restoration of the republic, it was absorbed by the Kingdom of Sardinia in 1815.

GUASTALLA

Countship, Duchy

Located on the south side of the River Po, some 16 miles (26 kilometers) south-southwest of Mantua, Guastalla was controlled by the Visconti and then the Torelli families during the late Middle Ages. The town and environs were ceded to the Gonzagas of Mantua in 1539, who were then invested as counts by Emperor Carlo V (1519-56). In 1557, the count received the mint right and later was raised to the rank of duke in 1621. At the death of Ferrante III in 1678, the Gonzaga duke of Mantua took possession of Guastalla until it was restored to the branch line of the family in 1692. Upon the death of the last of the line in 1746, Emperor Francesco I transferred Guastalla to the duke of Parma. The duchy was annexed to the Kingdom of Italy during the Napoleonic Era. In 1847, it passed to Modena and became part of modern Italy in 1859.

LUCCA

Luca, Lucensis
Lucca and Piombino

A town in Tuscany and the residence of a marquis, was nominally a fief but managed to maintain a de facto independence until awarded by Napoleon to his sister Elisa in 1805. In 1814 it was occupied by the Neapolitans, from 1817 to 1847 it was a duchy of the queen of Etruria, after which it became a division of Tuscany.

MANTUA

Mantova

A city of Lombardy, was taken by the Lombards in 568 and became a fief of the princely Italian Gonzaga family in 1328. It was stormed and sacked by the Austrians in 1630. Besieged by Napoleon in June 1796, it held until February of 1797. After forming part of the Cisalpine and Italian Republics it fell again to Austria in 1799. It was restored to the French in 1801, but reverted to Austria again as part of the Kingdom of Lombardy-Venetia, 1814-1866.

MILAN

A city in Lombardy, was ruled by the Lombards before falling to the Franks in 774. It was a dependency of the Spanish Crown from 1535 until the War of the Spanish Succession in 1714. Then it was handed over to Austria who ruled over it until the Napoleonic campaign of 1796 and then became part of the Cisalpine Republic in 1797. In 1802 it became part of the Italian Republic and was part of the Kingdom of Napoleon from 1805 to 1814. From 1814 it was incorporated within Lombardy-Venetia, again under Austrian rule. The Lombard campaign of 1859 restored Milan under the Kingdom of Italy.

MODENA

Mutina

The ancient Mutina is a territorial division of Italy fronting on the Adriatic Sea between Venetia and Marches which became Roman in 215-212 B.C. Ravaged by Attila and Lombard attacks, it was rebuilt in the 9th century. Obizzo d'Este became its lord in 1288 and it was constituted a duchy in favor of Borso d'Este in 1452.Modena was included in the Napoleonic complex from 1796 to 1813, after which it was governed by the House of Austria-Este. Modena began coining in the 13th century and ceased in 1796.

NAPLES & SICILY

Two Sicilies

Consisting of Sicily and the south of Italy, Naples & Sicily came into being in 1130. It passed under Spanish control in 1502; Naples was conquered by Austria in 1707. In 1733 Don Carlos of Spain was recognized as king. From then until becoming part of the United Kingdom of Italy, Naples and Sicily, together and separately, were contested for by Spain, Austria, France, and the republican and monarchial factions of Italy.

ORTA

Town

A town in Piedmont on a lake of the same name, west of Lago Maggiore and about 60 miles (100 kilometers) northeast of Torino. The town revolted against the rule of the Vescari in 1738-1741. A single issue bears witness to this event.

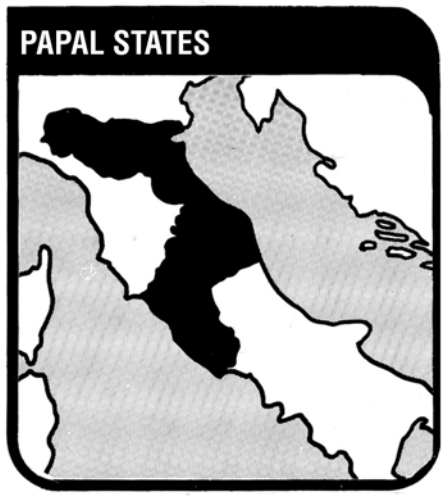
PAPAL STATES



During many centuries prior to the formation of the unified Kingdom of Italy, when Italy was divided into numerous independent papal and ducal states, the Popes held temporal sovereignty over an area in central Italy comprising some 17,000 sq. mi. (44,030 sq. km.) including the city of Rome. At the time of the general unification of Italy under the Kingdom of Sardinia, 1861, the papal dominions beyond Rome were acquired by that kingdom diminishing the Pope's sovereignty to Rome and its environs. In 1870, while France's opposition to papal dispossession was neutralized by its war with Prussia, the Italian army seized weakly defended Rome and made it the capital of Italy, thereby abrogating the last vestige of papal temporal power. In 1871, the Italian Parliament enacted the Law of Guarantees, which guaranteed a special status for the Vatican area, and spiritual freedom and a generous income for the Pope. Pope Pius IX and his successors adamantly refused to acknowledge the validity of these laws and voluntarily "imprisoned" themselves in the Vatican. The impasse between State and Church lasted until the signing of the Lateran Treaty, Feb. 11, 1929, by which Italy recognized the sovereignty and independence of the new Vatican City state.

PIACENZA

Placentia

A town and episcopal see that is located in the northwestern corner of the Italian territorial division of Emilia. It was made a Roman colony in 218 B.C., later becoming an important road center of the Roman Empire. Once a leading member of the Lombard League, it was united with Parma in 1545 to form a hereditary duchy in favor of the son of Pope Paul III. In 1731 it passed to Parma, then to the house of Hapsburg, and finally back to Parma in 1748.

RULERS
Maria Theresa as Duchess of Piacenza, 1740-1744
Carlo Emanuel III of Sardinia as Duke of Piacenza, 1744-1745
Philip of Bourbon as Duke of Parma and Piacenza, 1748-1765
Ferdinando di Borbone, 1765-1802

SAN GEORGIO

San Giorgio, in the province of Reggio, had been a feudal fief of the Spanish kings. In 1731 Giovanni Domenico, marchese of San Giorgio and Polistina, was made a prince of the Empire by Charles VI with permission to strike coins. He and his son each struck scudos for a single year at the Vienna mint.

SARDINIA

Sardinia is an island located in the Mediterranean Sea, west of the southern Italian peninsula, 9,301 sq. mi.; population 1,645,192. Along with some minor islands, it constitutes an autonomous region of Italy separated on the north from Corsica, France by the Strait of Bonifacio.

Settled by Phoenician's and Greeks before it came under control of Carthage during 600 BC; taken by the Romans in 238 BC; in the Vandal Kingdom during the5th century; re-conquered by the Byzantine Empire in533 AD. From the 8th century it was frequently raided by Muslims whose threat was eliminated by Pisa in 1016 as an object of a rivalrous bet. The Genoese and Pisans were driven out by the Aragonese during the 14th-15th centuries, remaining under Spanish rule until 1708; held by Austria 1708-17, regained by the Spanish in 1717 until it was finally ceded to Savoy in 1720 in exchange for Sicily, after which the ruler of Savoy and Piedmont took the title as King of Sardinia.

SAVOY

(Savoia)

The territory of Savoy encompassed the northwestern corner of Italy and parts of southeastern France, although the extent of its borders fluctuated over the centuries. Savoy was part of the Kingdom of Arles until 1032, when a son of a count of Bellay gained a measure of independence with the title Count of Aosta-Maurienne. His son, Oddone (1056-60), is recognized as the first ruler of the House of Savoy, but it was not until 1125 that the title became Count of the Empire. During the next few centuries, Savoy expanded to include most of the territory south of Lake Geneva (now in Switzerland) and gained Piedmont, with its capital of Torino (Turin). The count was raised to the rank of Prince of the Empire in 1310 and became Duke of Savoy in 1416.

Savoy was almost constantly caught up in conflicts between the various powers of Europe - the Empire, France and Spain. During 1533 to 1536, Savoy lost consecutively Vaud, Geneva, Valais, Chablais and Gex, then suffered French occupation until 1559. Montferrat was partly acquired in 1631, with the rest following in 1708. The Countship of Desana (see) also became part of the duchy in 1676. During the war year of 1713, Savoy conquered a number of fortresses along the French frontier and was given Sicily in reward. That island was exchanged with Austria for Sardinia in 1720 and all the holdings of the House of Savoy became the Kingdom of Sardinia (see), also called Sardinia-Piedmont.

SORAGNA

A town within the province of Parma first mentioned in 712 AD. Located 17 miles (28 kilometers) northwest of Parma, Soragna came under the influence of the Lupi family of Cremona in the early 13th century. When the last male Lupi died, the title passed by marriage to the Meli family. Emperor Carlo V (1519-56) invested the successor with the name Meli-Lupi in 1530. The marchese was raised to the rank of prince in 1709 and given the mint right. Only one member of the line ever struck a single coin. The castle of Soragna is still the home of the present-day Prince of Meli-Lupi.

RULER
Niccolò Meli-Lupi, 1731-1741

TUSCANY

Etruria

An Italian territorial division on the west-central peninsula, belonged to the Medici from 1530 to 1737, when it was given to Francis, duke of Lorraine. In 1800 the French established it as part of the Spanish dominions; from 1807 to 1809 it was a French department. After the fall of Napoleon it reverted to its pre-Napoleonic owner, Ferdinand III.

VENICE

Venezia

A seaport of Venetia was founded by refugees from the Hun invasions. From that time until the arrival of Napoleon in 1797, it maintained an enormous foreign trade involving the possession of many islands in the Mediterranean while keeping a state of quasi-independence despite the antagonism of jealous Italian states and the Ottoman Turks. During the French Occupation Napoleon handed it over to Austria. Later, upon the defeat of the Austrians by Prussia in 1860, Venice then became a part of the United Kingdom of Italy.

12 Denari = 1 Soldo
20 Soldi = 1 Lira
30 Soldi = 1 Lirazza
124 Soldi = 1 Ducatone = 1 Ducato
140 Soldi = 1 Scudo = 1 Tallero = 1 Zecchino
160 Soldi = 1 Scudo
2 Scudi = 1 Doppia

WEIGHTS
Zechhino = 3.45 g
Doppia = 6.90 g

NOTE: Venice struck many types of gold coins using billon or silver coinage dies. They also struck many denominations from the same dies, so it is most important to check the weight to determine the proper denomination.

DIE VARIETIES

Throughout this series there is great variety in the abbreviation within the legends while various stars, dots, colons, diamonds, rosettes and other devices were used in separating them.

Jamaica, a Constitutional Monarchy within the British Commonwealth is situated in the Caribbean Sea 90 miles south of Cuba, has an area of 4,244 sq. mi. (10,990 sq. km.) and a population of 2.1 million. Capital: Kingston. The economy is founded chiefly on mining, tourism and agriculture. Aluminum, bauxite, sugar, rum and molasses are exported.

Jamaica was discovered by Columbus on May 3, 1494, and settled by Spain in 1509. The island was captured in1655 by a British naval force under the command of Admiral William Penn, sent by Oliver Cromwell and ceded to Britain by the Treaty of Madrid, 1670. For more than 150 years, the Jamaican economy of sugar, slaves and piracy was one of the most prosperous in the new world. Dissension between the property-oriented island legislature and the home government prompted parliament to establish a crown colony government for Jamaica in 1866. From 1958 to 1961 Jamaica was a member of the West Indies Federation, withdrawing when Jamaican voters rejected the association. The colony attained independence on Aug. 6, 1962. Jamaica is a member of the Commonwealth of Nations. Elizabeth II is the Head of State, as Queen of Jamaica.

In 1758, the Jamaican Assembly authorized stamping a certain amount of Spanish milled coinage. Token coinage by merchants aided the island's monetary supply in the early19th century. Sterling coinage was introduced in Jamaica in 1825, with the additional silver three halfpence under William IV and Victoria. Certain issues of three pence of William IV and Victoria were intended for colonial use, including Jamaica, as were the last dates of three pence for George VI.

There was an extensive token and work tally coinage for Jamaica in the late 19th and early 20th centuries.

A decimal standard currency system was adopted on Sept. 8, 1969.

COUNTERMARKED COINAGE

1773

To relieve problems of light gold coinage,Jamaica legally adopted Spanish gold currency standards with a weight rating of 26.96 grams for the 8 Escudos and imposed penalties of 3 Pence per grain for the circulation of underweight gold coinage. As a result some underweight cobs were privately plugged to attain full weight and countermarked with a crocodile above the script initials GC. It is suspected that this work was done by George Clinton, an area goldsmith of this era.

Japan, a constitutional monarchy situated off the east coast of Asia, has an area of 145,809 sq. mi. (377,835 sq. km.) and a population of 123.2 million. Capital: Tokyo. Japan, one of the major industrial nations of the world, exports machinery, motor vehicles, electronics and chemicals.

Japan, founded (so legend holds) in 660 B.C. by a direct descendant of the Sun Goddess, was first brought into contact with the west by a storm-blown Portuguese ship in 1542. European traders and missionaries proceeded to enlarge the contact until the Shogunate, sensing a military threat in the foreign presence, expelled all foreigners and restricted relations with the outside world in the 17th century. After Commodore Perry's U.S. flotilla visited in 1854, Japan rapidly industrialized, abolished the Shogunate and established a parliamentary form of government, and by the end of the 19th century achieved the status of a modern economic and military power. A series of wars with China and Russia, and participation with the allies in World War I, enlarged Japan territorially but brought its interests into conflict with the Far Eastern interests of the United States, Britain and the Netherlands, causing it to align with the Axis Powers for the pursuit of World War II. After its defeat in World War II, General Douglas MacArthur forced Japan to renounce military aggression as a political instrument, and he instituted constitutional democratic self-government. Japan quickly gained a position as an economic world power.

Japanese coinage of concern to this catalog includes those issued for the Ryukyu Islands (also called Liuchu), a chain of islands extending southwest from Japan toward Taiwan (Formosa), before the Japanese government converted the islands into a prefecture under the name Okinawa. Many of the provinces of Japan issued their own definitive coinage under the Shogunate.

MONETARY SYSTEM

Until 1870

Prior to the Meiji currency reform, there was no fixed exchange rate between the various silver, gold and copper "cash" coins (which previously included Chinese "cash") in circulation. Each coin exchanged on the basis of its own merits and the prevailing market conditions. The size and weight of the copper coins and the weight and fineness of the silver and gold coins varied widely. From time to time the government would declare an official exchange rate, but this was usually ignored. For gold and silver, nominal equivalents were:
16 Shu = 4 Bu = 1 Ryo

HOEI ERA

Hoei Futatsu-ho (two characters ho, 1706-10)
Vertical stroke in era designator ho starts at second horizontal stroke and continues downward; does not extend up to top of character. There is a slight knob at each end of the bottom horizontal stroke. Compare with the era designator for the Yotsu-ho variety.

Hoei Ei-Ji (character ei, 1710)
Era designator is character ei, as used at bottom of Kanei Tsuho copper coinage.

Hoei Mitsu-ho (three characters ho, 1710-11)
Vertical stroke in era designator ho extends completely through the character from top to bottom.

Hoei Yoei Yotsu-ho (Four characters ho, 1711-12)
Era designator resembles the ho of the Futatsu-ho variety, except that a spike extends up from each end of the bottom horizontal stroke.

Shotoku-Kyoho Eras (1714-36)
As for the Keicho period pieces, there is no era designator for this period. Compare the style of the characters and designs with those of the Keicho period to distinguish between them.

Genbun Period, 1736-1818
(Used 1736-1818)

One of the above characters is usually found on the obverse of C#8 or both sides of C#8a and C#8b. The same characters are found at both ends of chogin pieces C#9. Era designators were used continuously until the next one was introduced, regardless of intervening eras.

NOTE: Values are for pieces weighing 5-8 grams. Pieces over 10 grams may command up to twice the values shown; pieces under 5 grams somewhat less.

Korea, 'Land of the Morning Calm', occupies a mountainous peninsula in northeast Asia bounded by Manchuria, the Yellow Sea and the Sea of Japan.

According to legend, the first Korean dynasty, that of the House of Tangun, ruled from 2333 B.C. to 1122 B.C. It was followed by the dynasty of Kija, a Chinese scholar, which continued until 193 B.C. and brought a high civilization to Korea. The first recorded period in the history of Korea, the period of the Three Kingdoms, lasted from 57 B.C. to 935 A.D. and achieved the first political unification of the peninsula. The Kingdom of Koryo, from which Korea derived its name, was founded in 935 and continued until 1392, when the Yi Dynasty of King Yi superseded it. Sung Kye was to last until the Japanese annexation in 1910.

At the end of the 16th century Korea was invaded by Japan, a conflict lasting seven years. From 1627 until the late 19th century, Korea shared a friendly relationship with China, but was replaced by Japan as the predominant foreign influence at the end of the Sino-Japanese War (1894-95), only to find her position threatened by Russian influence from 1896 to 1904. The Russian threat was eliminated following the Russo-Japanese War (1904-05). In 1905 Japan established a direct protectorate over Korea. On Aug. 22,1910, the last Korean ruler signed the treaty that annexed Korea to Japan as a government generalcy in the Japanese Empire. Japanese suzerainty was maintained until the end of World War II.

From 1633 to 1891 the monetary system of Korea employed cast coins with a square center hole. Fifty-two agencies were authorized to procure these coins from a lesser number of coin foundries. They exist in thousands of varieties. Seed, or mother coins, were used to make the impressions in the molds in which the regular cash coins were cast. Czarist-Russian Korea experimented with Korean coins when Alexiev of Russia, Korea's Financial Advisor, founded the First Asian Branch of the Russo-Korean Bank on March 1, 1898, and authorized the issuing of a set of new Korean coins with a crowned Russian-style quasi-eagle. British-Japanese opposition and the Russo-Japanese War operated to end the Russian coinage experiment in 1904.

TRIPOLI

Tripoli (formerly Ottoman Empire Area of antique Tripolitania, 700-146 B.C.), the capital city and chief port of the Libyan Arab Jamahiriya, is situated on the North African coast on a promontory stretching out into the Mediterranean Sea. It was probably founded by Phoenicians from Sicily, but was under Roman control from 146 B.C. until 450 A.D. Invasion by Vandals and conquest by the Byzantines preceded the Arab invasions of the 11th century which, by destroying the commercial centers of Sabratha and Leptis, greatly enhanced the importance of Tripoli, an importance maintained through periods of Norman and Spanish control. Tripoli fell to the Turks, who made it the capital of the vilayet of Tripoli in 1551 and remained in their hands until 1911, when it was occupied by the Italians who made it the capital of the Italian province of Tripolitania. British forces entered the city on January 23, 1943, and administered it until establishment of the independent Kingdom of Libya on December 24, 1951.

MINT NAME

طرابلس

Tarabalus

طرابلس غرب

Tarabalus Gharb = (Tripoli West)

The appellation west serving to distinguish it from Tripoli in Lebanon, which had been an Ottoman Mint in the 16th century. On some of the copper coins, Gharb is omitted; several types come both with and without Gharb. The mint closed between the 28th and 29th year of the reign of Mahmud II.

MONETARY SYSTEM

The monetary system of Tripoli was confused and is poorly understood. Theoretically, 40 Para were equal to one Piastre, but due to the debasement of the silver coinage, later issues are virtually pure copper, though the percentage of alloy varies radically even within a given year. The 10 Para and 20 Para pieces were a little heavier than the copper Paras, with which they could easily be confounded, except that the copper Paras were generally thicker, and bear simpler inscriptions. It is not known how many of the coppers were tariffed to the debased Piastre and its fractions. Some authorities consider the copper pieces to be Beshliks (5 Para coins).

The gold coinage came in two denominations, the Zeri Mahbub (2.4-2.5 g), and the Sultani Altin (3.3-3.4 g). The ratio of the billon Piastres to the gold coins fluctuated from day to day.

LIECHTENSTEIN

The Principality of Liechtenstein, located in central Europe on the east bank of the Rhine between Austria and Switzerland, has an area of 62 sq. mi. (160 sq. km.) and a population of 27,200. Capital: Vaduz. The economy is based on agriculture and light manufacturing. Canned goods, textiles, ceramics and precision instruments are exported.

The lordships of Schellenburg and Vaduz were merged into the principality of Liechtenstein. It was a member of the Rhine Confederation from 1806 to 1815, and of the German Confederation from 1815 to 1866 when it became independent. Liechtenstein's long and close association with Austria was terminated by World War I. In 1921 it adopted the coinage of Switzerland, and two years later entered into a customs union with the Swiss, who also operated its postal and telegraph systems and represented it in international affairs. The tiny principality abolished its army in 1868 and has avoided involvement in all European wars since that time.

Situated along the Meuse, Ourthe, and Sambre rivers, Liege was a bishopric which geographically completely divided the Austro-Spanish Netherlands.

Traditionally founded in the 7th Century by St. Lambert, Liege became a bishopric in 721 and by 1000, under Bishop Notga, thrived as an intellectual hub of the west and center for Mosan art. Internal struggles between citizens' guilds and prince-bishops did not weaken Liege to self-destruction. She resisted two sacks by Charles the Bold during 15th Century Burgundian domination of the Netherlands and completely rebuilt the city upon his death in 1477.

Liege was bombarded by the French in 1691, and during the War of Spanish Succession was taken by the English in 1702. After the death of Johann Theodor (Bishop, 1744-1763) there were no coin issues of the bishops. The only coin issues were the Sede Vacante issues of 1763, 1771, 1784 and 1792.

Ultimately the rule of the nobles ended in 1789 by a bloodless revolution which was followed by her annexation to France in 1795 and assignment with the rest of Belgium to the Netherlands in 1815.

Since Belgium's independence in 1830, Liege is again recognized as a major river port, rail center and cosmopolitan hub for art, education and industry.

LITHUANIA

The Republic of Lithuania, southernmost of the Baltic states in east Europe, has an area of 25,174 sq. mi.(65,201 sq. km.) and a population of *3.6 million. Capital: Vilnius. The economy is based on livestock raising and manufacturing. Hogs, cattle, hides and electric motors are exported.

Lithuania emerged as a grand duchy in the 14th century. In the 15th century it was a major power of central Europe, stretching from the Baltic to the Black Sea. It was joined with Poland in 1569, but lost Smolensk, Chernigovsk, and the left bank of the river Dnepr Ukraina in 1667. Following the third partition of Poland by Austria, Prussia and Russia, 1795, Lithuania came under Russian domination and did not regain its independence until shortly before the end of World War I when it declared itself a sovereign republic on Feb. 16, 1918. In fall of 1920, Poland captured Vilna (Vilnius). The republic was occupied by Soviet troops and annexed to the U.S.S.R. in 1940. Following the German occupation of 1941-44, it was retaken by Russia and reestablished as a member republic of the Soviet Union. Western countries, including the United States, did not recognize Lithuania's incorporation into the Soviet Union.

Lithuania declared its independence March 11, 1990 and it was recognized by the United States on Sept. 2, 1991, followed by the Soviet government in Moscow on Sept. 6. They were seated in the UN General Assembly on Sept. 17, 1991.

A former province of Russia, now partly in Latvia and partly in southern Estonia.

The division of Livonia left the northern part governed by Russia while the southern part fell under the dominion of Poland. In 1621 it was the theatre of a war between Sweden and Poland. Being conquered by Sweden, Livonia enjoyed 25 years of milder rule.

A historic region at the eastern end of the Baltic Sea now known as Latvia and Estonia. It was originally inhabited by the Chudes, the Livs, the Narora, Letgola, Semigallians and Kors. The Germans first penetrated into Livonia in the 11th Century. Christianity was introduced by the Livonian Knights known as the Brothers of the Sword. They came under Polish rule in 1561, passed to Sweden in 1629 and was made part of Russia in 1721 following the Great Northern War, 1700-1721.

This special issue of coins was made following the issuing of the ukase of October 25, 1756 by Elizabeth, Czarina of all the Russias. The issue was to last only until the following year. For later coinage see Estonia and Latvia.

LUXEMBOURG

The Grand Duchy of Luxembourg is located in western Europe between Belgium, Germany and France, has an area of 1,103 sq. mi. (2,586 sq. km.) and a population of 377,100. Capital: Luxembourg. The economy is based on steel.

Founded about 963, Luxembourg was a prominent country of the Holy Roman Empire; one of its sovereigns became Holy Roman Emperor as Henry VII, 1308. After being made a duchy by Emperor Charles IV, 1354, Luxembourg passed under the domination of Burgundy, Spain, Austria and France, 1443-1815, regaining autonomy under the Treaty of Vienna, 1815, as a grand duchy in union with the Netherlands, though ostensibly a member of the German Confederation. When Belgium seceded from the Kingdom of the Netherlands, 1830, Luxembourg was forced to cede its greater western section to Belgium. The tiny duchy left the German Confederation in 1867 when the Treaty of London recognized it as an independent state and guaranteed its perpetual neutrality. Luxembourg was occupied by Germany and liberated by American troops in both World Wars.

PENANG

Pulu Penang-Prince of Wales Island

An island off the west coast of Malaysia. Ceded to the British in 1791 by the sultan of Kedah and was the first British settlement in Malaya. Also known as Pulu Penang and Prince of Wales Island - which title it retained until1867.

The currency system depended on the Spanish dollar divided into 100 pice (or cents) until 1826 when 48 pice were deemed the equivalent of one Bengal rupee until1830. The coins are considered in three groups:

(a) The Company bale mark series, consisting of copper1/10, 1/2 and 1 pice of 1786/1787, and silver tenth, quarter and half dollars, dated 1788;

(b) Company coat of arms issues in copper between1810 and 1828 in denominations of 1/2, 1 and double pice pieces; and

(c) Tin issues of local mintage pice pieces of 1800-1809, which are extremely rare.

The Republic of Maldives, an archipelago of 2,000 coral islets in the northern Indian Ocean 417 miles (671 km.) west of Ceylon, has an area of 116 sq. mi. (298 sq. km.)and a population of 189,000. Capital: Male. Fishing employs 95 % of the male work force. Dried fish, copra and coir yarn are exported.

The Maldive Islands were visited by Arab traders and converted to Islam in 1153. After being harassed in the16th and 17th centuries by Mopla pirates of the Malabar coast and Portuguese raiders, the Maldivians voluntarily placed themselves under the suzerainty of Ceylon. In 1887 the islands became an internally self-governing British protectorate and a nominal dependency of Ceylon. Traditionally a sultanate, the Maldives became a republic in 1953 but restored the sultanate in 1954. The Sultanate of the Maldive Islands attained complete internal and external autonomy on July 26, 1965, and on Nov. 11,1968, again became a republic.

Mahle (Male)

MONETARY SYSTEM

100 Lari = 1 Rupee (Rufiyaa)

NOTE: The metrology of the early coinage is problematical. There seem to have been three denominations: a double Larin of 8-10 g, a Larin of approximately 4.8 g, and a half Larin that varied from 1.1 to 2.4 g, known as the Bodu Larin, Larin and Kuda Larin, respectively. In some years probably when copper was cheap (AH1276 & 1294),the Kuda (1/2) Larin is found with weights as high as 3.5 g. During the rule of Muhammad Imad Al-Din II Al-Muzaffar Bin Muhammad (1704-1721AD) additional denominations in the form of the 1/4, 1/8 and 1/16 Larin (1.17 g, 0.55 g and 0.29 g) were introduced on an experimental basis. This experiment was not followed by later rulers with the exception of Muhammad Imad Al-Din IV (1835-1882AD) who struck some lightweight coins of about 1.1 g which can be considered 1/4 Larins.

The Order of Malta, modern successor to the Sovereign Military Hospitaller Order of St. John of Jerusalem (the crusading Knights Hospitallers), derives its sovereignty from grants of extraterritoriality by Italy (1928) and the Vatican City (1953), and from its supranational character as a religious military order owing suzerainty to the Holy See. Its territory is confined to Palazzo Malta on Via Condotti, Villa Malta and the crest of the Aventine Hill, all in the city of Rome. The Order maintains diplomatic relations with about 35 governments, including Italy, Spain, Austria, State of Malta, Portugal, Brazil, Guatemala, Panama, Peru, Iran, Lebanon, Philippines, Liberia, Ethiopia, and several others.

The Knights Hospitallers were founded in 1099 just before the crusaders' capture of Jerusalem. Father Gerard (died 1120) was the founder and first rector of the Jerusalem hospital. The headquarters of the Order were successively at Jerusalem 1099-1187; Acre 1187-1291; Cyprus 1291-1310; Rhodes 1310-1522; Malta 1530-1798;Trieste 1798-1799; St. Petersburg 1799-1803; Catania 1803-1825; Ferrara 1826-1834; Rome 1834-Present.

COUNTERMARKED COINAGE

For over a century the two and four Tari copper coins struck during the reign of Jean-Paul Lascaris Castellar were countermarked as an expedient against the prevalent forging of these coins both in Malta and Messina.

A total of eight different countermarks were utilized. As many as seven can be found on the 2 Tari and all eight different may be encountered on the 4 Tari.

COUNTERMARKS

I. Imperial eagle in circle.

Initiated May 28, 1646.

II. Head of John the Baptist in oval.

Initiated April 19, 1662.

III. Crowned fleur-de-lis.

Initiated August 27, 1696.

For more information refer to The Coinage of the Knights in Malta by Felice Restelli and Joseph C. Sammut, 1977 by Emmanuel Said Publishers, Valettta, Malta.

NOTE: Coins are properly catalogued by the latest countermark. Obviously certain coins may lack one or more countermarks having been missed during such an extensive countermarking period. Prices for this section are based on common examples, which are likely to show less detail and tend to be cupped. The images shown here are exceptional examples and command premium prices.

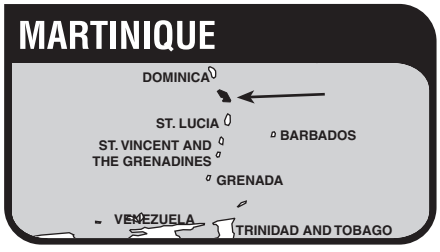
MARTINIQUE



The French Overseas Department of Martinique, located in the Lesser Antilles of the West Indies between Dominica and Saint Lucia, has an area of 425 sq. mi.(1,100 sq. km.) and a population of 290,000. Capital: Fort-de-France. Agriculture and tourism are the major sources of income. Bananas, sugar, and rum are exported.

Christopher Columbus discovered Martinique, probably on June 15, 1502. France took possession on June 25, 1635, and has maintained possession since that time except for three short periods of British occupation during the Napoleonic Wars. A French department since 1946, Martinique voted a reaffirmation of that status in 1958, remaining within the new French Community. Martinique was the birthplace of Napoleon's Empress Josephine, and the site of the eruption of Mt. Pelee in 1902 that claimed 40,000 lives.

FRENCH COLONY

COUNTERMARKED COINAGE

Type I - 1761-64

It is believed that circulating coins were holed in order to lower their intrinsic value below their face value thus keeping the coins from leaving the island. The heart-shaped center punches never circulated and did not have any legal tender status. Most were melted at the time of minting.

MEXICO

Mexico, located immediately south of the United States has an area of 759,529 sq. mi. (1,967,183 sq. km.) and an estimated population of 88 million. Capital: Mexico City. The economy is based on agriculture, manufacturing and mining. Oil, cotton, silver, coffee, and shrimp are exported.

Mexico was the site of highly advanced Indian civilizations 1,500 years before conquistador Hernando Cortes conquered the wealthy Aztec empire of Montezuma,1519-21, and founded a Spanish colony which lasted for nearly 300 years. During the Spanish period, Mexico, then called New Spain, stretched from Guatemala to the present states of Wyoming and California. Its' present northern boundary having been established by the secession of Texas during 1836 and the War of 1846-48 with the United States.

These two principalities have constituted the base of modern Romania. Wallachia and Moldova were established early in the 14th century. Following some wars against Hungarian kings, both principalities became independent.

For many years these principalities successfully defended themselves against attacks by foreign powers, especially the Turks. The local rulers trying to protect the country's independence had to choose between a policy of resistance and one of conciliation. In the 15th century, Wallachia and the early 16th century, Moldova signed a series of settlements with the Ottoman Empire. These bilateral treaties stipulated the unaltered maintenance of native institutions, the authority of princes in the country, respect for the Orthodox Christian faith and the interdiction of any Islamic manifestations, limitation on the presence of Turk merchants in the territory; in exchange, they paid the annual tribute and provided military assistance to the Sultan when needed.

The 16th century brought new hardship to East Central Europe, especially after the Ottoman Empire reached the peak of its power under the Sultan Suleiman I the Magnificent (1520-1566). Thus, Belgrade (1521) fell to the Turks and with the defeat of Mohacs battle in 1526, Hungary came under Ottoman rule in 1526. Under these circumstances, Turkish control over Wallachia and Moldova became increasingly burdensome. From an economic standpoint, apart from the tribute, the princes paid the many gifts and bribes necessary to obtain and keep the throne, extraordinary services and the obligation of exporting certain goods only to the Empire. The local mints have been closed. Independent action in foreign affairs was severely restricted.

One of the most remarkable exceptions was the Prince Constantin Brancoveanu (1688-1714), who tried to maintain the autonomy of Wallachia. His relations with the Ottoman Empire worsened during the Russo-Turkish war (1711), when the prince took a neutral stance in the conflict. More, as defiance, he ordered a distinct coinage under his arms. These special coins, in gold and silver, were issued in Transylvania at Alba Iulia by the mintmaster Carl Josef Hoffman in 1713. Consequently, Brancoveanu's family was taken to Istanbul in April 1714, where the prince was tortured and executed together with his four sons.

Under these circumstances, the Turks imposed the so-called Phanariot regime in Moldova and Wallachia. These Phanariot rulers were usually Orthodox members of the noble Greek families from Istanbul. Thus, the autonomous status of the principalities was formally preserved, but considerable limitations were imposed upon them.

Because of the decline of Turkish power, Russian influence became preeminent in this area, which became a battle field. Wallachia was occupied by the Russian troops between 1769-74 and 1788-91. On its behalf, Moldova fell under Tsarist occupation in 1739, 1769-74 and 1788-91, in this period together with the Hapsburgs.

During the Russo-Turkish war (1768-74) a special coinage was made for the area, also known as Sadagura coins, the first commune coins for both principalities. The Russian administrator, the Marshall Rumeanatsev has accepted as an adventurer, the Baron Gartenberg, set up a mint at Sadagura near the city of Cernauti (region of Bukovina, in the north of Moldova). For these coins and patterns, the bronze from captured Turkish cannons was used.

The treaty of Kuchuk-Kainarji (1774), which ended the Russo-Turkish war, Moldova lost its northern region, Bukovina, to Austria in 1775, after a Russo-Austro-Turkish agreement.

In 1792, Russia annexed Transnistria, a territory extended east of the Nistru River under Ottoman suzerainty, but gave its administration to the Moldavian rulers.

The Principality of Monaco, located on the Mediterranean coast nine miles from Nice, has an area of 0.58 sq. mi. (1.9 sq. km.) and a population of 26,000. Capital: Monaco-Ville. The economy is based on tourism and the manufacture of cosmetics, gourmet foods and highly specialized electronics. Monaco also derives its revenue from a tobacco monopoly and the sale of postage stamps for philatelic purpose. Gambling in Monte Carlo accounts for only a small fraction of the country's revenue.

Monaco derives its name from Monoikos', the Greek surname for Hercules, the mythological strong man who, according to legend, formed the Monacan headland during one of his twelve labors. Monaco has been ruled by the Grimaldi dynasty since 1297 - Prince Rainier III, the present and 31st monarch of Monaco, is still of that line - except for a period during the French Revolution until Napoleon's downfall when the Principality was annexed to France. Since 1865, Monaco has maintained a customs union with France which guarantees its privileged position as long as the royal line remains intact. Under the new constitution proclaimed on December 17, 1962, the Prince shares his power with an 18-member unicameral National Council.

Montserrat, a British crown colony located in the Lesser Antilles of the West Indies 27 miles (43 km.) southwest of Antigua, has an area of 38 sq. mi. (100 sq. km.) and a population of 18,500. Capital: Plymouth. The island - actually a range of volcanic peaks rising from the Caribbean - exports cotton, limes and vegetables.

Columbus discovered Montserrat in 1493 and named it after Monserrado, a mountain in Spain. It was colonized by the English in 1632 and, except for brief periods of French occupancy in 1667 and 1782-83, has remained a British possession from that time. Currency of the British Caribbean Territories (Eastern Group) was used until later when the East Caribbean States coinage was introduced. Until becoming a separate colony in 1956, Montserrat was a presidency of the Leeward Islands.

The early 19th century countermarks of a crowned 3, 4,7, 9 or 18 over M as documented by Major Pridmore have been more correctly listed under St. Bartholomew.

The Kingdom of Morocco, situated on the northwest corner of Africa, has an area of 432,620 sq. mi. (710,850 sq. km.). Capital: Rabat.

Morocco's strategic position at the gateway to western Europe has been the principal determinant of its violent, frequently unfortunate history. Time and again the fertile plain between the rugged Atlas Mountains and the sea has echoed the battle's trumpet as Phoenicians, Romans, Vandals, Visigoths, Byzantine Greeks and Islamic Arabs successively conquered and occupied the land. Modern Morocco is a remnant of an early empire formed by the Arabs at the close of the 7th century which encompassed all of northwest Africa and most of the Iberian Peninsula. During the 17th and 18th centuries, while under the control of native dynasties, it was the headquarters of the famous Sale pirates. Morocco's strategic position involved it in the competition of 19th century European powers for political influence in Africa, and resulted in the division of Morocco into French and Spanish spheres of interest which were established as protectorates in 1912. Morocco became independent on March 2, 1956, after France agreed to end its protectorate. Spain signed similar agreements on April 7 of the same year.

EARLY COINAGE

Prior to the introduction of modern machine-struck coinage in Morocco in AH1299/1882AD the coinage of the Filali Sharifs contained of a variety of primitive hammered copper and cast bronze coins as well as of crudely hammered silver and gold issues which were in circulation together with considerable quantities of foreign coins.

The cast bronze (starting with Al-Yazid in AH1204/1790AD) were produced in several denominations, multiples and fractions of the basic unit of the Falus (Felous). The expression Zelagh (Zalagh) was used for all fractions of the Falus. After the Monetary Reform of 1902AD the Mazuna (or Muzuna, Mouzuna, Mawzuna) was the standard bronze unit. The size and weights of the pre-1902AD coins vary, which sometimes makes its distinction difficult, in particular for earlier rulers. Early types are varied, with different ornamentation and designs, some undated and/or without mint name, which makes a complete presentation of all varieties impossible. Beginning in AH1208, the obverse bears the Seal of Solomon (hexagram) and the reverse includes the date and/or mint name. All cast bronzes with only ornaments or the Seal of Solomon on both sides are issues of Sulayman. The mint (if present) is in Arabic script and starting with issues of Mohammed III the date (when present) is in Western numerals. The bronze pieces were cast in "trees" and occasionally entire or partial "trees" are found in the market.

Some bronze issues of Mohammed IV with illegible dates and mints and often light in weight are considered contemporary counterfeits. The war with Spain led to a chaotic and bad economic period in Morocco, during which Dirhams have been counterfeited by silver-plating hammered copper and brass pieces with dates AH1283-89/1866-72AD of Mohammed IV.

The silver and gold coins usually have the mint name on one side and the date on the other side. The original silver unit was the "legal dirham" of 2.931 grams standard weight, changing to several lower standards depending on the economic situation. A ¼ Dirham was called Mazuna until AH1213. The gold units Dinar and beginning with Sulayman, the Benduqi (Bonduqi) had 3.52 grams standard weight.

All weights indicated in the following listings for bronze, silver and gold coins are standards weights; actual weights of coins found can differ considerably. Anonymous strikes can be assigned to individual rulers by date, design and weight standard. Prices are for specimens with clearly legible dates (if any) and mint names (if any). Illegible and defectively produced pieces are worth much less.

To have more information on Moroccan issues from AH1075-1400/1664-1980AD, refer to Corpus des Monnaies Alawites by Daniel Eustache, Rabat 1984. For professional comments and estimate of rarity for all weights standards, see A Checklist of Islamic Coins by Stephen Album, Santa Rosa 1998. Information on Mazuna-strikes of Fes of AH1320-1323/1902-1205AD can be found in Monedas de Marruecos by Sanchez-Giron Blasco, Ceuta 1980. For details of Moroccan issues from AH1297-1380/1879-1960AD, refer to Monnaies et Jetons des Colonies Francaises by Jean Lecompte, Monaco 2000. Excellent drawings of bronze coins of Morocco, from AH1184-1321/1770-1903AD, can be found in Modern Copper Coins of the Muhammadan States by W. H. Valentine, London 1911 (reprint 1969).

NOTE: Prices are for specimens with clearly legible dates and mint names (if any). Illegible, barbarous, and defectively produced pieces are worth much less. Between AH1221-36 due to the bad economic situation no Dirhams were minted.

NOTE: Falus, most issues show ornaments on both sides composed of interlacing lines in a circle/square with inscriptions around, some issues have octagonal/hexagonal designs besides inscriptions Bronze, 3.97 g, 18-24mm.

The Republic of Mozambique, a former overseas province of Portugal, stretches for 1,430 miles (2,301km.) along the southeast coast of Africa, has an area of 302,330 sq. mi. (801,590 sq. km.) and a population of 14.1 million, 99 % of whom are native Africans of the Bantu tribes. Capital: Maputo. Agriculture is the chief industry. Cashew nuts, cotton, sugar, copra and tea are exported.

Vasco de Gama explored all the coast of Mozambique in 1498 and found Arab trading posts already established along the coast. Portuguese settlement dates from the establishment of the trading post of Mozambique in 1505.Within five years Portugal absorbed all the former Arab sultanates along the east African coast. The area was organized as a colony in 1907 and became an overseas province in 1952. In Sept. of 1974, after more than a decade of guerrilla warfare with the forces of the Mozambique Liberation Front, Portugal agreed to the independence of Mozambique, effective June 25, 1975.The Socialist party, led by President Joaquim Chissano was in power until the 2nd of November, 1990 when they became a republic.

Mozambique became a member of the Commonwealth of Nations in November 1995. The President is Head of State; the Prime Minister is Head of Government.

COUNTERMARKED COINAGE

Decree of May 28, 1767

This decree stated that all crown-sized coins were to be marked with a MR monogram and a 4. There are no known specimens listed in numismatic literature that tell of examples with the 4. The MR appears almost exclusively on Spanish Colonial Pillar dollars. Occasionally it appears on cob pieces and European coins. This countermark was to circulate for a longer period than any other Mozambique countermark.

BURMA (Myanmar)

Burma, a country of Southeast Asia fronting on the Bay of Bengal and the Andaman Sea, had an area of 261,218 sq. mi. (678,500 sq. km.).

The first European to reach Burma, in about 1435, was Nicolo Di Conti, a Venetian merchant. During the beginning of the reign of Bodawpaya (1781-1819AD) the kingdom comprised most of the same area as it does today including Arakan which was taken over in 1784-85. The British East India Company, while unsuccessful in its 1612 effort to establish posts along the Bay of Bengal, was enabled by the Anglo-Burmese Wars of 1824-86 to expand to the whole of Burma and to secure its annexation to British India.

The coins issued by kings Mindon and Thibaw between 1852 and 1885 circulated in Upper Burma. Indian coins were current in Lower Burma, which was annexed in 1852. Burmese coins are frequently known by the equivalent Indian denominations, although their values are inscribed in Burmese units. Upper Burma was annexed in 1885 and the Burmese coinage remained in circulation until 1889, when Indian coins became current throughout Burma. The Chula-Sakarat (CS) dating is sometimes referred to as BE-Burmese Era and began in 638AD.

NOTE: For later coinage, see Myanmar.

NEPAL

The Kingdom of Nepal, the world's only surviving Hindu kingdom, is a landlocked country occupying the southern slopes of the Himalayas. It has an area of 56,136 sq. mi. (140,800 sq. km.) and a population of 18 million. Capital: Kathmandu. Nepal has deposits of coal, copper, iron and cobalt, but they are largely unexploited. Agriculture is the principal economic activity. Rice, timber and jute are exported, with tourism being the other major foreign exchange earner.

Apart from a brief Muslim invasion in the 14th century, Nepal was able to avoid the mainstream of Northern Indian politics, due to its impregnable position in the mountains. It is therefore a unique survivor of the medieval Hindu and Buddhist culture of Northern India which was largely destroyed by the successive waves of Muslim invasions.

Prior to the late 18th century, Nepal, as we know it today, was divided among a number of small states. Unless otherwise stated, the term Nepal applies to the small fertile valley, about 4,500 ft. above sea level, in which the three main cities of Kathmandu, Patan and Bhatgaon are situated.

During the reign of King Yaksha Malla (1428-1482AD), the Nepalese kingdom, with capital at Bhatgaon, was extended northwards into Tibet, and also controlled a considerable area to the south of the hills. After Yaksha Malla's death, the Kingdom was divided among his sons, so four kingdoms were established with capitals at Bhatgaon, Patan, Kathmandu and Banepa, all situated within the small valley, less than 20 miles square. Banepa was quickly absorbed within the territory of Bhatgaon, but the other three kingdoms remained until 1769. The internecine strife between the three kings effectively stopped Nepal from becoming a major military force during this period, although with its fertile land and strategic position, it was by far the wealthiest and most powerful of the Himalayan states.

Apart from agriculture, Nepal owed its prosperity to its position on one of the easiest trade routes between the great monasteries of central Tibet, and India. Nepal made full use of this, and a trading community was set up in Lhasa during the 16th century, and Nepalese coins became the accepted currency medium in Tibet.

The seeds of discord between Nepal and Tibet were sown during the first half of the 18th century, when the Nepalese debased the coinage, and the fate of the Malla kings of Nepal was sealed when Prithvi Narayan Shah, King of the small state of Gorkha, to the west of Kathmandu, was able to gain control of the trans-himalayan trade routes during the years after 1750.

Prithvi Narayan spent several years consolidating his position in hill areas before he finally succeeded in conquering the Kathmandu Valley in 1768, where he established the Shah dynasty, and moved his capital to Kathmandu.

After Prithvi Narayan's death a period of political instability ensued which lasted until the 1840's when the Rana family reduced the monarch to a figurehead and established the post of hereditary Prime Minister. A popular revolution in 1950 toppled the Rana family and reconstituted power in the throne. In 1959 King Mahendra declared Nepal a constitutional monarchy, and in 1962 a new constitution set up a system of panchayat (village council) democracy. In 1990, following political unrest, the king's powers were reduced. The country then adopted a system of parliamentary democracy.

DATING

Nepal Samvat Era (NS)

All coins of the Malla kings of Nepal are dated in the Nepal Samvat era (NS). Year 1 NS began in 881, so to arrive at the AD date add 880 to the NS date. This era was exclusive to Nepal, except for one gold coin of Prana Narayan of Cooch Behar.

Saka Era (SE)

Up until 1888AD all coins of the Gorkha Dynasty were dated in the Saka era (SE). To convert from Saka to AD take Saka date and add 78 to arrive at the AD date. Coins dated with this era have SE before the date in the following listing.

Vikrama Samvat Era (VS)

From 1888AD most copper coins were dated in the Vikram Samvat (VS) era. To convert take VS date - 57 =AD date. Coins with this era have VS before the year in the listing. With the exception of a few gold coins struck in 1890 & 1892, silver and gold coins only changed to the VS era in 1911AD, but now this era is used for all coins struck in Nepal.

MONETARY SYSTEM

Mohar Series

In about 1640 the weight standard of the Nepalese coinage was completely changed, and it is probable that all the old tanka coins were withdrawn from circulation.

The new standard coin was the Mohar, weighing about5.4 g, or rather more than half the old tanka. The Mohar was subdivided in factors of 2, as follows:
2 Mohar (Rupee) = 10.80 g
1 Mohar = 5.40 g
1/2 Mohar = 2.70 g
1/4 Mohar (Suki) = 1.35 g
1/8 Mohar = 0.67 g
1/16 Mohar = 0.34 g
1/32 Mohar = 0.17 g
1/128 Mohar (Dam) = 0.04-0.08 g
1/512 Mohar (Jawa) = 0.01 g

The weights given above correspond to the average weight of actual specimens, rather than the theoretical weight, which has been said to be 86.4 grains, or 5.60 g.

The coinage was almost entirely of silver, with the tiny Jawa being easily the smallest coin in the world. Gold coins were struck on only one or two occasions during the Madra period, from the same dies as the silver coins, but these were probably only used for ceremonial purposes. Gold after 1777AD was struck in greater quantity.

Initially the coinage was of fine silver, in contrast to the tanka coins, which were frequently debased. During the early 18th century, however, the coins became debased, but the fineness was improved after 1753AD. The coinage was again debased in the first half of the 19th century.

Many of the mohars circulated in Tibet as well as in Nepal, and on a number of occasions coins were struck from bullion supplied by the Tibetan authorities. The smaller denominations never circulated in Tibet, but some of the mohars were cut for use as small change in Tibet.

In these listings only major changes in design have been noted. There are numerous minor varieties of ornamentation or spelling.

Initially the copper paisa was not fixed in value relative to the silver coins, and generally fluctuated in value from1/32 mohar in 1865AD to around 1/50 mohar afterc1880AD, and was fixed at that value in 1903AD.
4 Dam = 1 Paisa
2 Paisa = 1 Dyak, Adhani

CUT COINAGE

The Mohar, KM#259, was struck in large quantities in base metal and sent to Tibet, where it was often cut for use as small change. The full coin circulated at the value of 1.5 Sho, and it was cut into fractions of 2/3, 1/2, and 1/3, circulating at 1 Sho, 0.75 Sho and 0.5 Sho. Two methods of cutting were used, the earliest method merely used a straight line cut, whereas during the early 19th century it became normal to cut much of the center out of the fractions. The denomination was determined by the number of petals visible and how it is cut. Lucky emblems were in petals. These pieces continued to circulate until the 1920s.

CUT COINAGE

The silver Mohar, KM#472.2, was struck in large quantities and sent to Tibet, where it was often cut for use as small change. The full coin circulated at the value of 1.5 Sho, and it was cut into fractions of 2/3, 1/2, and 1/3, curculating at 1 Sho, 0.75 Sho, and 0.5 Sho. Two methods of cutting were used, the earliest method merely used a straight line cut, whereas during the early 19th century it became normal to cut much of the center out of the fractions. The denomination was determined by the number of petals visible and how it is cut with letters in the petals. These pieces continued to circulate until the 1920s.

The Kingdom of the Netherlands, a country of western Europe fronting on the North Sea and bordered by Belgium and Germany, has an area of 15,770 sq. mi. (41,500 sq. km.) and a population of 16.4 million. Capital: Amsterdam, but the seat of government is at The Hague. The economy is based on dairy farming and a variety of industrial activities. Chemicals, yarns and fabrics, and meat products are exported.

After being a part of Charlemagne's empire in the 8th and 9th centuries, the Netherlands came under control of Burgundy and the Austrian Hapsburgs, and finally was subjected to Spanish dominion in the 16th century. Led by William of Orange, the Dutch revolted against Spain in 1568. The seven northern provinces formed the Union of Utrecht and declared their independence in 1581,becoming the Republic of the United Netherlands. In the ollowing century, the Golden Age of Dutch history, the Netherlands became a great sea and colonial power, a patron of the arts and a refuge for the persecuted. The United Dutch Republic ended in 1795 when the French formed the Batavian Republic. Napoleon made his brother Louis, the King of Holland in 1806, however he abdicated in 1810 when Napoleon annexed Holland. The French were expelled in 1813, and all the provinces of Holland and Belgium were merged into the Kingdom of the United Netherlands under William I, in 1814. The Belgians withdrew in 1830 to form their own kingdom, the last substantial change in the configuration of European Netherlands. German forces invaded in 1940 as the royal family fled to England where a government-in-exile was formed. A German High Commissioner, Arthur Seyss-Inquart, was placed in command until 1945 when the arrival of Allied military forces ended the occupation.

BATAVIAN REPUBLIC

From 1796 to 1806, the Netherlands was a confederation of seven provinces, each producing coins similar in design but differing in the coat of arms or inscription. Generally the coins of each province contained an abbreviation of the name of the province somewhere in the inscription. Under the Batavian Republic, the following abbreviations were used.

PROVINCE ABBREVIATIONS
G, GEL - Gelderland
HOL, HOLL - Holland
TRANSI - Overijsel
TRA, TRAI, TRAIECTUM - Utrecht
WESTF, WESTRI - Westfriesland

GELDERLAND

Ducatus Gelriae

Gelder, a former duchy, was merged with the Hapsburg dominions in the Netherlands until the revolt of the Low Countries resulted in its partition. In 1579 the greater part of Gelder, comprising the quarters of Nijmegen, Arnhem, and Zutphen, became the province of Gelderland in the Dutch Republic.

GRONINGEN AND OMMELAND

The province of Groningen is located in northern Netherlands and is drained by numerous rivers and canals.

The early history of Groningen is chiefly one of conflict between the city and the surrounding districts known as the Ommelanden. The city remained loyal to the Spanish king while the surrounding area supported the revolt against Spain. After 1594 Groningen and Ommelanden were united into one republic but it was not until 1795 that they were merged into one province.

The Groningen Mint was closed in 1692. The following coins were struck at the Harderwyk Mint of Gelderland.

HOLLAND

Hollandia

Holland, a Dutch maritime province fronting on the North Sea, is the most important region of the Netherlands. It is a leader in maritime activities and in efficient agriculture. During the period of Spanish domination, Holland was the bulwark of the Protestant faith in the Netherlands and the focus of the resistance to Spanish tyranny.

LIMBOURG PROVINCE-MAASTRICHT

Maestricht
Traiectum Ad Mosam

Maastricht, a commune in the province of Limburg in the Netherlands, was the seat of a bishop from 382 to 721. Once part of the Frankish realm, it was overtaken by Spaniards in 1579 and then ruled by the dukes of Brabant and the prince-bishops of Liege after 1673. It was taken by the French in 1673, 1748, and 1794. The Austrian defenders under the Prince of Hesse issued an emergency coinage for Maastricht during the 1794 siege.

OVERYSSEL

Overijsel, Transisulania

Overyssel is a province in northeastern Netherlands whose name means beyond the Issel, a tributary of the Rhine. Originally known as the lordship of Oversticht it was a part of the holdings of the bishops of Utrecht. It was sold to Charles V in 1527 and made a part of the Habsburg domain. Three of its cities - Kampen, Deventer and Zwolle were important Hanseatic towns of the medieval period.

BONKS: Because of the slow delivery of coins from the Netherlands, the government in the East Indies often resorted to the manufacture of "Bonks". These were simply lumps cut from the copper (or tin) rods used for coining. This eliminated the problems inherent in casting round coins and allowed the production of large quantities of legal tender very quickly. The thicker rods were used for the 2 and 8 Stuiver Bonks and the thinner rod for the smaller denominations.

TOKENS: Most tokens in this section were struck in Britain on orders from Singapore merchants and used to pay seafaring Malays. Although the Dutch made them illegal, they circulated in the outer provinces due to scarcity of legal coins. Thus, the area mentioned on the tokens does not mean they were struck in or for the area, or that they circulated in the area. The dates do not indicate the year of issue.

BANJARMASIN

Sultanate of So. Indonesia on the Martapura River where it meets the Barito. It has a population of 481,371. It is about 24 mi. from the sea. It was settled by the Dutch 1711; held by English 1811-17; bombed by Japanese and taken in Feb. 13, 1942; retaken by Allies August 1945.

TITLES

بنجرمسن

Banjarmasin

RULER
S. Tamjid Illah III, 1785-1808

NOTE: From around 1790 until at least 1817 various native minted copper coins have been circulating in the Sultanate of Banjarmasin. There is a very large variety in design of these Banjarmasin-Kepings, the majority are crude imitations of Duits of the Dutch East India Co. showing a range of crowned shields on the obverse. Some of them have inscriptions in Malay within the shield, some show the name Banjarmasin in Malay in 2 lines; also mirror script types are known. Most coins have the company's VOC mark on the reverse, usually with badly executed date numerals below. There are other scarcer talismanic numeral type reverses as well as scarce pieces bearing an imitation of the English United East Indian Company's bale mark 'C-E-V-I' or the scales design found on the company's Bombay Presidency series. Sizes vary from 20-25mm with rare specimens of 15-16mm. The weight of this copper series ranges from 1.35-2.50g. Combinations of obv. and rev. of all types exist.

SUMATRA, ISLAND OF

An island, south of the Malay peninsula, was first reached by Europeans for trade in 1599. Competition between European powers for trading rights continued until 1824 at which time it became a Dutch possession. British coins for the island were struck at the Birmingham Mint by Matthew Boulton in 1786 and other issues were struck at Indian mints.

FORT MARLBRO
British United East India Company

This fort was the principal British settlement in the East Indies from its construction in 1714 until 1788, when the Dutch returned to Sumatra. The name is a corrupted version of Marlborough, a popular British hero in 1714. The British regained control of the area in 1795 and remained there till 1824 when civil war forced them to return the west coast to the Dutch.

NETHERLANDS WEST INDIES

The islands came under Dutch control in the early part of the seventeenth century. The Director of the West Indian colonies went to the Estates General, the legislature of the Netherlands, in 1792 in an effort to get coins made for the West Indies that would carry some distinctive mark as those of the East Indies did. Legislation was passed on Dec. 31, 1793 that such coins should be made to the standard of the Netherlands. The 1/4 Gulden was included in the series and the letter W below the arms was to be the distinctive mark. Some of the 3, 1 and 1/4 Gulden were used at the Dutch settlement on the Gold Coast in Africa. All were struck at the Utrecht Mint.

The Kingdom of Norway (Norge, Noreg), a constitutional monarchy located in northwestern Europe, has an area of 150,000sq. mi. (324,220 sq. km.), including the island territories of Spitzbergen (Svalbard) and Jan Mayen, and a population of *4.2 million. Capital: Oslo (Christiana). The diversified economic base of Norway includes shipping, fishing, forestry, agriculture, and manufacturing. Nonferrous metals, paper and paperboard, paper pulp, iron, steel and oil are exported.

A united Norwegian kingdom was established in the 9th century, the era of the indomitable Norse Vikings who ranged far and wide, visiting the coasts of northwestern Europe, the Mediterranean, Greenland and North America. In the 13th century the Norse kingdom was united briefly with Sweden, then passed through inheritance in 1380 to the rule of Denmark which was maintained until 1814. In 1814 Norway fell again under the rule of Sweden. The union lasted until 1905 when the Norwegian Parliament arranged a peaceful separation and invited a Danish prince (King Haakon VII) to ascend the throne of an independent Kingdom of Norway.

The Republic of Peru, located on the Pacific coast of South America, has an area of 496,225 sq. mi. (1,285,220sq. km.) and a population of *21.4 million. Capital: Lima. The diversified economy includes mining, fishing and agriculture. Fish meal, copper, sugar, zinc and iron ore are exported.

Once part of the great Inca Empire that reached from northern Ecuador to central Chile, the conquest of Peru by Francisco Pizarro began in 1531. Desirable as the richest of the Spanish viceroyalties, it was torn by warfare between avaricious Spaniards until the arrival in 1569 of Francisco de Toledo, who initiated 2-1/2 centuries of efficient colonial rule, which made Lima the most aristocratic colonial capital and the stronghold of Spain's American possessions. Jose de San Martin of Argentina proclaimed Peru's independence on July 28, 1821;Simon Bolivar of Venezuela secured it in December, 1824 when he defeated the last Spanish army in South America. After several futile attempts to re-establish its South American empire, Spain recognized Peru's independence in 1879.

Andres de Santa Cruz, whose mother was a high-ranking Inca, was the best of Bolivia's early presidents, and temporarily united Peru and Bolivia 1836-39, thus realizing his dream of a Peruvian/Bolivian confederation. This prompted the separate coinages of North and South Peru. Peruvian resistance and Chilean intervention finally broke up the confederation, sending Santa Cruz into exile. A succession of military strongman presidents ruled Peru until Marshall Castilla revitalized Peruvian politics in themid-19th century and repulsed Spain's attempt to reclaim its one-time colony. Subsequent loss of southern territory to Chile in the War of the Pacific, 1879-81, and gradually increasing rejection of foreign economic domination, combined with recent serious inflation, affected the country numismatically.

As a result of the discovery of silver at Potosi in 1545, a mint was eventually authorized in 1565with the first coinage taking place in 1568. The mint had an uneven life span during the Spanish Colonial period from 1568-72. It was closed from 1573-76, reopened from 1577-88. It remained closed until 1659-1660 when an unauthorized coinage in both silver and gold were struck. After being closed in 1660, it remained closed until 1684 when it struck cob style coins until 1752.

MINT MARKS
AREQUIPA, AREQ = Arequipa
AYACUCHO = Ayacucho
CUZCO (monogram), Cuzco, Co. Cuzco
L, LIMAE (monogram), Lima (monogram), LIMA = Lima
PASCO (monogram), Pasco, Paz, Po= Pasco

NOTE: The LIMAE monogram appears in three forms. The early LM monogram form looks like a dotted L with M. The later LIMAE monogram has all the letters of LIMAE more readily distinguishable. The third form appears as an M monogram during early Republican issues.

The Republic of the Philippines, an archipelago in the western Pacific 500 miles (805 km.) from the southeast coast of Asia, has an area of 115,830 sq. mi. (300,000 sq. km.) and a population of *64.9 million. Capital: Manila. The economy of the 7,000-island group is based on agriculture, forestry and fishing. Timber, coconut products, sugar and hemp are exported.

Migration to the Philippines began about 30,000 years ago when land bridges connected the islands with Borneo and Sumatra. Ferdinand Magellan claimed the islands for Spain in 1521. The first permanent settlement was established by Miguel de Legazpi at Cebu April, 1565. Manila was established in 1572. A British expedition captured Manila and occupied the Spanish colony in October 1762, but returned it to Spain by the treaty of Paris, 1763. Spain held the Philippines despite growing Filipino nationalism until 1898 when they were ceded to the United States at the end of the Spanish-American War. The Philippines became a self-governing commonwealth under the United States in 1935, and attained independence as the Republic of the Philippines on July 4, 1946.

The Republic of the Philippines, an archipelago in the western Pacific 500 miles (805 km.) from the southeast coast of Asia, has an area of 115,830 sq. mi. (300,000 sq. km.) and a population of *64.9 million. Capital: Manila. The economy of the 7,000-island group is based on agriculture, forestry and fishing. Timber, coconut products, sugar and hemp are exported.

Migration to the Philippines began about 30,000 years ago when land bridges connected the islands with Borneo and Sumatra. Ferdinand Magellan claimed the islands for Spain in 1521. The first permanent settlement was established by Miguel de Legazpi at Cebu April, 1565. Manila was established in 1572. A British expedition captured Manila and occupied the Spanish colony in October 1762, but returned it to Spain by the treaty of Paris, 1763. Spain held the Philippines despite growing Filipino nationalism until 1898 when they were ceded to the United States at the end of the Spanish-American War. The Philippines became a self-governing commonwealth under the United States in 1935, and attained independence as the Republic of the Philippines on July 4, 1946.

THORN

Thorn is an industrial city in north-central Poland which was founded in 1231. They became a member of the Hanseatic League. The city came under Polish suzerainty (Torun) in 1454 and remained until they were absorbed by Prussia in 1793, except for brief periods of Swedish Occupation from1655-58 and during the Great Northern War (1703) when they were ruled by Sweden.

The city of Thorn was the birthplace of the astronomer, Copernicus. The last city coinage was struck in 1765.

The Portuguese Republic, located in the western part of the Iberian Peninsula in southwestern Europe, has an area of 35,553 sq. mi. (92,080 sq. km.) and a population of *10.5 million. Capital: Lisbon. Portugal's economy is based on agriculture, tourism, minerals, fisheries and a rapidly expanding industrial sector. Textiles account for 33% of the exports and Portuguese wine is world famous. Portugal has become Europe's number one producer of copper and the world's largest producer of cork.

After centuries of domination by Romans, Visigoths and Moors, Portugal emerged in the 12th century as an independent kingdom financially and philosophically prepared for the great period of exploration that would soon follow. Attuned to the inspiration of Prince Henry the Navigator (1394-1460), Portugal's daring explorers of the15th and 16th centuries roamed the world's oceans from Brazil to Japan in an unprecedented burst of energy and endeavor that culminated in 1494 with Portugal laying claim to half the transoceanic world. Unfortunately for the fortunes of the tiny kingdom, the Portuguese population was too small to colonize this vast territory. Less than a century after Portugal laid claim to half the world, English, French and Dutch trading companies had seized the lion's share of the world's colonies and commerce, and Portugal's place as an imperial power was lost forever. The monarchy was overthrown in 1910 and a republic was established.

On April 25, 1974, the government of Portugal was seized by a military junta which reached agreements providing for independence for the Portuguese overseas provinces of Portuguese Guinea (Guinea-Bissau), Mozambique, Cape Verde Islands, Angola, and St. Thomas and Prince Islands (Sao Tome and Principe).

On January 1, 1986, Portugal became the eleventh member of the European Economic Community and in the first half of 1992 held its first EEC Presidency.

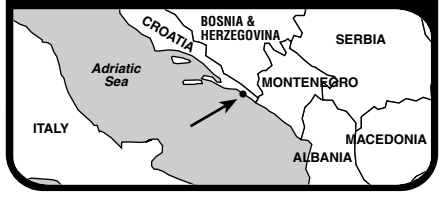
RAGUSA



A port city in Croatia on the Dalmatian coast of the Adriatic Sea. Upon its incorporation in Yugoslavia in1918, its name was officially changed to Dubrovnik. Ragusa was once a great mercantile power, the merchant fleets of which sailed as far abroad as India and America. The city's present industries include oil-refining, slate mining, and the manufacture of liqueurs, cheese, silk, leather, and soap.

Refugees from the destroyed Latin communities of Salona and Epidaurus, and a colony of Slavs colonized the island rock of Ragusa during the 7th century. For four centuries Ragusa successfully defended itself against attacks by foreign powers, but from 1205 to 1358 recognized Venetian suzerainity. From 1358 to 1526, Ragusa was a vassal state of Hungary. The fall of Hungary in 1526 freed Ragusa, permitting it to become one of the foremost commercial powers of the Mediterranean and a leader in the development of literature and art. After this period its importance declined, due in part to the discovery of America, which reduced the importance of Mediterranean ports. A measure of its former economic importance was regained during the Napoleonic Wars when the republic, by adopting a policy of neutrality (1800-1805), became the leading carrier of the Mediterranean. This favored position was terminated by French seizure in 1805. In 1814 Ragusa was annexed by Austria, remaining a part of the Austrian Empire until its incorporation in the newly formed state of Yugoslavia in1918. Croatia proclaimed its independence in 1991.

Russia, formerly the central power of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics and now of the Commonwealth of Independent States occupies the northern part of Asia and the eastern part of Europe, has an area of 17,075,400 sq. km. Capital: Moscow.

The first Russian dynasty was founded in Novgorod by the Viking Rurik in 862 A.D. under Yaroslav the Wise (1019-54). The subsequent Kievan state became one of the great commercial and cultural centers of Europe before falling to the Mongols of the Batu Khan, 13th century, who were suzerains of Russia until late in the 15th century when Ivan III threw off the Mongol yoke. The Russian Empire was enlarged, solidified and Westernized during the reigns of Ivan the Terrible, Peter the Great and Catherine the Great, and by 1881 extended to the Pacific and into Central Asia. Contemporary Russian history began in March of 1917 when Tsar Nicholas II abdicated under pressure and was replaced by a provisional government composed of both radical and conservative elements. This government rapidly lost ground to the Bolshevik wing of the Socialist Democratic Labor Party which attained power following the Bolshevik Revolution which began on Nov. 7, 1917. After the Russian Civil War, the regional governments, national states and armies became federal republics of the Russian Socialist Federal Soviet Republic. These autonomous republics united to form the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics that was established as a federation under the premiership of Lenin on Dec. 30, 1922.

Copper Ruler: Catherine II Note: Swedish issue. During the war between Russia and Sweden in 1788, the Swedish government began to strike copies of the current 5 kopek piece using a Royal instead of Imperial crown design. Several dates are known. A common way to distinguish the Swedish forgery from the original is to note that "kopek" is spelled with a "b" as a last letter rather than ? as found on the genuine issue. Another sign is the 7's in the date which are straight on the Swedish piece and curved on the Russian originals.

RUSSIA-SIBERIA

Siberia, the vast expanse that is most of Asiatic Russia covers 4,950,000 sq. mi. and has a population of about 35,090,000. Siberia, which means Sleeping Land in the Tatar language reaches from the Ural Mountains in the west to the Pacific Ocean in the east and from the Arctic Ocean in the north to the borders of China in the south. It is composed of three major regions: the Lena River Basin; the Central Siberian Plateau (reaching to 5,581 ft.) and the West Siberian Plain. Siberia is probably best known for its severe winters with temperatures of -90F being recorded. Leading industries are mining and forestry.

Siberia was tribal in nature until 1581 when an expedition from Russia made up of Cossacks overthrew the Sibir Khanate. In the next 3 centuries explorers and traders explored throughout Siberia. Under the czars it became a place to send criminals and political dissidents. With the construction of the Trans-Siberian Railroad (1891-1905) migration began from the West and settlements grew along the railroad right-of-way.

The Siberian coinage of Catherine the Great was inaugurated because of a shortage. A mint was established at Kolyvan-Voskressensk in the mining areas of the Altai Mountains. Men and machinery were sent from the Ekaterinburg Mint to get the new mint started. The normal Russian copper denominations were used plus the addition of a copper 10 kopeck piece. The regular series runs from 1766 to 1781 but there are known pieces dated1763 and 1764.

SAINT EUSTATIUS

St. Eustatius (Sint Eustatius, Statia), a Netherlands West Indian island located in the Leeward Islands of the Lesser Antilles nine miles northwest of St. Kitts, has an area of 12 sq. mi. (21 sq. km.) and a population of about 2,000. It is part of the Netherlands Antilles. The island's capital is Oranjestad. The chief industries are farming, fishing, and tourism.

Between 1630 and 1640 the Dutch seized Curacao, Saba, St. Martin and St. Eustatius, all valuable as piloting and smuggling depots. The territorial acquisitions were confirmed to the Dutch by the Treaty of Munster in 1648. Under the guidance of merchants from Flushing, St. Eustatius became a prosperous entry port of neutral trade. On Feb. 3, 1781, British Admiral George Rodney, acting under orders, captured the island and confiscated much valuable booty. Before passing permanently into Dutch hands, St. Eustatius was attacked or captured several times by the French and English, and was in English hands during the Napoleonic Wars from 1810 to 1814.

COUNTERMARKED COINAGE

SE incuse countermark on French Guiana 2 Sous coins was official.

These were followed by raised SE countermarks (on a variety of worn billon and silver coins) generally thought to be forgeries.

From 1809 all coins had to be revalidated with a P countermark, which stood for Pierre dit Flamand, the artisan who designed the mark. Both raised and incuse SE varieties as well as unmarked coins were revalidated.

Saint Helena, a British colony located about 1,150 miles (1,850 km.) from the west coast of Africa, has an area of 47 sq. mi. (410 sq. km.) and a population of *7,000. Capital: Jamestown. Flax, lace, and rope are produced for export. Ascension and Tristan da Cunha are dependencies of Saint Helena.

The island was discovered and named by the Portuguese navigator Joao de Nova Castella in 1502. The Portuguese imported livestock, fruit trees, and vegetables but established no permanent settlement. The Dutch occupied the island temporarily, 1645-51. The original European settlement was founded by representatives of the British East India Company sent to annex the island after the departure of the Dutch. The Dutch returned and captured Saint Helena from the British on New Year's Day, 1673, but were in turn ejected by a British force under Sir Richard Munden. Thereafter Saint Helena was the undisputed possession of Great Britain. The island served as the place of exile for Napoleon, several Zulu chiefs, and an ex-sultan of Zanzibar.

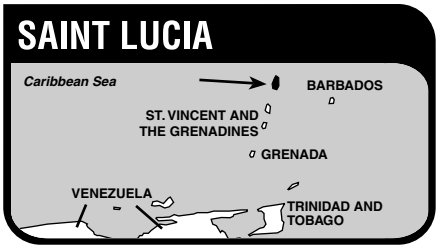
SAINT LUCIA



Saint Lucia, an independent island nation located in the Windward Islands of the West Indies between Saint Vincent and Martinique, has an area of 238 sq. mi. (620 sq. km.) and a population of *150,000. Capital: Castries. The economy is agricultural. Bananas, copra, cocoa, sugar and logwood are exported.

Columbus discovered Saint Lucia in 1502. The first attempts at settlement undertaken by the British in 1605 and 1638 were frustrated by sickness and the determined hostility of the fierce Carib inhabitants. The French settled it in 1650 and made a treaty with the natives. Until 1814, when the island became a definite British possession, it was the scene of a continuous conflict between the British and French, which saw the island change, hands on at least 14 occasions. In 1967, under the West Indies Act, Saint Lucia was established as a British associated state, self-governing in internal affairs. Complete independence was attained on February 22, 1979. Saint Lucia is a member of the Commonwealth of Nations. Elizabeth II is Head of State as Queen of Saint Lucia.

Prior to 1950, the island used sterling, which was superseded by the currency of the British Caribbean Territories (Eastern Group) and the East Caribbean State.

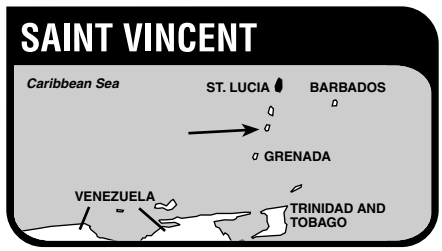
SAINT VINCENT



Saint Vincent and the Grenadines, consisting of the island of Saint Vincent and the northern Grenadines (a string of islets stretching southward from Saint Vincent), is located in the Windward Islands of the West Indies, West of Barbados and south of Saint Lucia. The tiny nation has an area of 150sq. mi. (340 sq. km.) and a population of *105,000.Capital: Kingstown. Arrowroot, cotton, sugar, molasses, rum and cocoa are exported. Tourism is a principal industry.

Saint Vincent was discovered by Columbus on Jan. 22,1498, but was left undisturbed for more than a century. The British began colonization early in the 18th century against bitter and prolonged Carib resistance. The island was taken by the French in 1779, but was restored to the British in 1783, at the end of the American Revolution. Saint Vincent and the northern Grenadines became a British associated state in Oct. 1969. Independence under the name of Saint Vincent and the Grenadines was attained at midnight of Oct. 26, 1979. The new nation chose to become a member of the Commonwealth of Nations with Elizabeth II as Head of State and Queen of Saint Vincent.

A local coinage was introduced in 1797, with the gold withdrawn in 1818 and the silver in 1823. This was replaced by sterling. From the mid-1950's, Saint Vincent used the currency of the British Caribbean Territories (Eastern Group), than that of the East Caribbean States.

COUNTERMARKED COINAGE

Gold (1798-1818)

The countermarking of various gold coins in circulation on Saint Vincent was authorized by an Act of August 1, 1798. Standard weight for a gold Joe was set at 11.66 grams with a denomination of 66 Shillings. Full weight gold was marked 3 times with the letter S. Underweight gold could be brought up to proper weight by plugging and marking the plug with a letter S, under the guidance of at least 1 council member and 2 assemblymen.

Ongoing concerns and practical implementation made this act subject to review and in all likelihood alterations were made resulting in the various plugged and full weight examples listed below. All countermarked Joes were recalled in 1818.

Hejaz, a province of Saudi Arabia and a former vilayet of the Ottoman Empire, occupies an 800-mile long (1,287km.) coastal strip between Nejd and the Red Sea. The province was a Turkish dependency until freed in World War I. Husain Ibn Ali, Amir of Mecca, opposed the Turkish control and, with the aid of Lawrence of Arabia, wrested much of Hejaz from the Turks and in 1916 assumed the title of King of Hejaz. Abd Al-Aziz Bin Sa'ud, of Nejd conquered Hejaz in 1925, and in 1926 combined it and Nejd into a single kingdom.

HEJAZ - MECCA

Mecca, the metropolis of Islam and the capital of Hejaz, is located inland from the Red Sea due east of the port of Jidda. A center of non-political commercial, cultural and religious activities, Mecca remained virtually independent until 1259. Two centuries of Egyptian rule were followed by four centuries of Turkish rule which lasted until the Arab revolts which extinguished pretensions to sovereignty over any part of the Arabian peninsula.

Scotland is located on the northern part of the island of Great Britain. It has an area of 30,414 square miles (78,772 sq. km.) and population of 5.2 million. Capital: Edinburgh. Cereal grains and potatoes are the principal farm products. Production of textiles, electrical instruments, spirits; shipbuilding and tourism are also important sources of income.

Scotland was the traditional home of the Picts in ancient times. The Romans invaded the area after 80 A.D. and Hadrian's Wall was built from 122-126 A.D. to keep the Picts from the Roman settlements to the south. In the 5th century Scotland had 4 kingdoms: Northumbria (Anglo-Saxon), Picts, Scots (of Irish extraction) and Strathclyde. St. Columba converted the Picts to Christianity in the late 6th century. Norse invasions started in the late 8th century. The Picts conquered the Scots in the 9th century and under Malcolm II (1005-1034) the Scottish kingdoms were united. The Scottish King became a vassal of the English king in 1174 (a circumstance that was to lead to many disputes). The Scots gained independence in 1314 at Bannockburn under Robert Bruce. From 1371-1714 it was ruled by the Stuarts, and in 1603 when James VI of Scotland succeeded Elizabeth I as James I, King of England, a personal union of the two kingdoms was formed. Parliamentary Act in 1707 made final union of the two kingdoms. In 1999 the Scottish Parliament was re-formed to make local decisions.

The Republic of Sierra Leone, a British Commonwealth nation located in western Africa between Guinea and Liberia, has an area of 27,699 sq. mi. (71,740 sq. km.) and a population of *4.1 million. Capital: Freetown. The economy is predominantly agricultural but mining contributes significantly to export revenues. Diamonds, iron ore, palm kernels, cocoa, and coffee are exported.

The coast of Sierra Leone was first visited by Portuguese and British slavers in the 15th and 16th centuries. The first settlement, at Freetown, 1787, was established as a refuge for freed slaves within the British Empire, runaway slaves from the United States and Negroes discharged from the British armed forces. The first settlers were virtually wiped out by tribal attacks and disease. The colony was re-established under the auspices of the Sierra Leone Company and transferred to the British Crown in 1807. The interior region was secured and established as a protectorate in 1896. Sierra Leone became independent within the Commonwealth on April 27, 1961, and adopted a republican constitution ten years later. It is a member of the Commonwealth of Nations. The president is Chief of State and Head of Government.

The Spanish State, forming the greater part of the Iberian Peninsula of southwest Europe, has an area of 195,988 sq. mi. (504,714 sq. km.) and a population of 39.4 million including the Balearic and the Canary Islands. Capital: Madrid. The economy is based on agriculture, industry and tourism. Machinery, fruit, vegetables and chemicals are exported.

It isn't known when man first came to the Iberian Peninsula - the Altamira caves off the Cantabrian coast approximately 50 miles west of Santander were fashioned in Paleolithic times. Spain was a battleground for centuries before it became a united nation, fought for by Phoenicians, Carthaginians, Greeks, Celts, Romans, Vandals, Visigoths and Moors. Ferdinand and Isabella destroyed the last Moorish stronghold in 1492, freeing the national energy and resources for the era of discovery and colonization that would make Spain the most powerful country in Europe during the 16th century. After the destruction of the Spanish Armada, 1588, Spain never again played a major role in European politics. Forcing Ferdinand to give up his throne and placing him under military guard at Valencay in 1808, Napoleonic France ruled Spain until 1814. When the monarchy was restored in 1814 it continued, only interrupted by the short-lived republic of 1873-74, until the exile of Alfonso XIII in 1931 when the Second Republic was established.

Discontent against the mother country increased after 1808 as colonists faced new imperialist policies from Napoleon or Spanish liberals. The revolutionary movement was established which resulted in the eventual independence of the Vice-royalties of New Spain, New Granada and Rio de la Plata within 2 decades.

The doomed republic was trapped in a tug-of-war between the right and left wing forces inevitably resulting in the Spanish Civil War of 1936-38. The leftist Republicans were supported by the U.S.S.R. and the International Brigade, which consisted of mainly communist volunteers from all over the western world. The right wing Nationalists were supported by the Fascist governments of Italy and Germany. Under the leadership of Gen. Francisco Franco, the Nationalists emerged victorious and immediately embarked on a program of reconstruction and neutrality as dictated by the new "Caudillo"(leader) Franco.

The monarchy was reconstituted in 1947 under the regency of General Francisco Franco; the king designate to be crowned after Franco's death. Franco died on Nov.20, 1975. Two days after his passing, Juan Carlos de Borbon, the grandson of Alfonso XIII, was proclaimed King of Spain.

MONETARY SYSTEM
34 Maravedi = 1 Real (of Silver)
16 Reales = 1 Escudo

NOTE: The early coinage of Spain is listed by denomination based on a system of 16 Reales de Plata (silver) = 1 Escudo (gold). However, in the Constitutional periol from 1808-1850, a concurrent system was introduced in which 20 Reales de Vellon (billon) = 8 Reales de Plata. This system does not necessarily refer to the composition of the coin itself. To avoid confusion we have listed the coins using the value as it appears on each coin, ignoring the monetary base.

NAVARRE

Navarre, a frontier province of northern Spain and a former kingdom lies on the western end of the border between France and Spain. From the 10th through the12th centuries Navarre was a solid power in the region. After 1234 the kingdom fell under French dominance. In 1516 Ferdinand annexed Navarre to Spain and it was under this vice royalty that coinage was struck at the mint in Pamplona.

The Kingdom of Navarre was ultimately divided and absorbed by France and Spain.

The Netherlands as an entity perhaps came into being when Philip the Good, duke of Burgundy (1419-1467) called all the Burgundian states together for a common session at Bruges in 1464. Charles the Bold continued to add to the territory and consolidated his power, which, however reverted to the States General at his death in 1477. His daughter Mary married the Austrian archduke Maximilian, and was succeeded by her only son, Philip the Handsome (1494-1506). He married Joanna of Spain, daughter of Ferdinand and Isabella, and their oldest son, Charles V, became king of Aragon and Castile in 1520, head of the Austrian house of Habsburg, and Holy Roman Emperor. The Netherlands passed under the regency of his aunts Margaret of Austria (1519-30) and Mary of Hungary (1531-55). Philip II (1556-98) was a Spaniard and resented by many of the Netherlanders, especially the Protestants and the higher nobility and clergy. The ruthless savagery of his governor the duke of Alba led to continued revolts, and finally to the Pacification of Ghent 1576, a union which was short lived. By the Union of Utrecht (1579) the northern provinces to all intents and purposes were separated from the southern ones.

The Spanish under Farnese, the duke of Parma, gradually regained supremacy in the southern provinces. Philip gave the provinces as dowry when his daughter, Isabella, married the archduke Albert of Austria in 1598. The Spanish Netherlands was to be an independent state based on Catholicism as the only recognized religion, and strong central government. Albert died in 1621 and Isabella in 1633, childless, and the provinces reverted to Philip IV of Spain. War with the United Netherlands and France followed until by the Peace Westphalia, concluding the Thirty Years War in1648, Philip recognized the independence of the northern states. By the Peace of the Pyrenes in 1659 and the Peace of Aix-la-Chapelle in 1668 Louis XIV of France acquired Artois and other border districts. On the death of Charles II in 1700 the southern Netherlands passed to the new Bourbon king of Spain, the French duke Philip of Anjou. In 1701, Louis XIV compelled his grandson to turn the territory over to France, but by the Treaty of Utrecht concluding the War of the Spanish Succession, the provinces were given to Austria.

BRABANT

A marquisate in medieval time. In 1578 Don John of Austria, the hero of Lepanto, died here. The area and town were much fought over even into modern times.

TOURNAI

A commercial and industrial commune located in southwest Belgium with a population of 33,625. Hosiery, textiles, leather goods and cement are exported.

Tournai, a city in Hainaut made episcopal see in 6th century, came under French rule and received its charter in 1187. In the early 16th century it was an English possession for a few years and Henry VIII sold it to Francis I. In 1521 the Count of Nassau took it for Spain. It was frequently besieged in wars in the sixteenth through eighteenth centuries. It was severely damaged during World War 1, being captured by the Germans in 1914 and held until 1918.

The Republic of Suriname also known as Dutch Guiana, located on the north central coast of South America between Guyana and French Guiana. It has an area of 63,037 sq. mi. (163,270 sq. km.) and a population of *433,000.Capital: Paramaribo. The country is rich in minerals and forests, and self-sufficient in rice, the staple food crop. The mining, processing and exporting of bauxite is the principal economic activity.

Lieutenants of Amerigo Vespucci sighted the Guiana coast in 1499. Spanish explorers of the 16th century, disappointed at finding no gold, departed leaving the area to be settled by the British in 1652. The colony prospered and the Netherlands acquired it in 1667 in exchange for the Dutch rights in Nieuw Nederland (state of New York). During the European wars of the 18th and 19th centuries, which were fought in part in the new world, Suriname was occupied by the British from 1781-1784 and 1796-1814. Suriname became an autonomous part of the Kingdom of the Netherlands on Dec. 15, 1954. Full independence was achieved on Nov. 25, 1975. In 1980, a coup installed a military government which has since been dissolved.

The Kingdom of Sweden, a limited constitutional monarchy located in northern Europe between Norway and Finland, has an area of 173,732 sq. mi. (449,960 sq. km.) and a population of *8.8 million. Capital: Stockholm. Mining, lumbering and a specialized machine industry dominate the economy. Machinery, paper, iron and steel, motor vehicles and wood pulp are exported.

Sweden was founded as a Christian stronghold by Olaf Skottkonung late in the 10th century. After conquering Finland late in the 13th century, Sweden, together with Norway, came under the rule of Denmark, 1397-1523, in an association known as the Union of Kalmar. Modern Sweden had its beginning in 1523 when Gustaf Vasa drove the Danes out of Sweden and was himself chosen king. Under Gustaf Adolphus II and Charles XII, Sweden was one of the great powers of 17th century Europe – until Charles invaded Russia in 1708, and was defeated at the Battle of Pultowa in June, 1709. Early in the 18th century, a coalition of Russia, Poland and Denmark took away Sweden's Baltic empire and in 1809 Sweden was forced to cede Finland to Russia. Norway was ceded to Sweden by the Treaty of Kiel in January, 1814. The Norwegians resisted for a time but later signed the Act of Union at the Convention of Moss in August, 1814, The Union was dissolved in 1905 and Norway became independent. A new constitution which took effect on Jan. 1, 1975, restricts the function of the king largely to a ceremonial role.

PLATE MONEY

The Kingdom of Sweden issued copper plate money, heavy and cumbersome square or rectangular coins ranging in size up to about 13 by 25 inches down to less than 3 by 3 inches, from 1644 to 1776. The kingdom was poor in silver and gold but had rich copper resources. The coins were designed to contain copper bullion in the value of the silver coins they replaced, and were denominated as one, two, four, etc. dalers in silver mint or silver coin.

Although sometimes classed with odd and curious money these were legal tender coins of the realm and although used and exported as bullion, they circulated domestically and were essential in the commerce of Sweden and Finland for more than a century.

They are widely collected, not only in Scandinavia but around the world.

Each denomination is catalogued under the name of the issuing monarch and by the mint mark and or source of the copper. The latter are important in the rarity and thus prices of the coins. The pieces are identified by the center stamp, with the denomination, mint mark, etc., and four identical corner stamps, with the insignia of the king and date.

Many are extremely rare, with only a single specimen or two known, often only a unique survivor in a major museum.

COUNTERMARKED COINAGE

Plate Money

In 1718 copper plate money was countermarked to reflect changes in value. Two of them, the shield with lion of the Gota arms and the date 17-18 and the three crowns in a circle, do not add substantially to the numismatic value of the pieces.

The third, however, which shows an increase in legal tender value of 50 per cent, is scarce in all denominations, as reflected in the following valuations.

In Switzerland, canton is the name given to each of the 23 states comprising the Swiss Federation. The origin of the cantons is rooted in the liberty-loving instincts of the peasants of Helvetia. After the Romans departed Switzerland to defend Rome against the barbarians, Switzerland became, in the Middle Ages, a federation of fiefs of the Holy Roman Empire. In 888 it was again united by Rudolf of Burgundy, a minor despot, and for 150 years Switzerland had a king. Upon the death of the last Burgundian king, the kingdom crumbled into a loose collection of feudal fiefs ruled by bishops and ducal families who made their own laws and levied their own taxes. Eventually this division of rule by arbitrary despots became more than the freedom-loving and resourceful peasants could bear. The citizens living in the remote valleys of Uri, Schwyz (from which Switzerland received its name) and Unterwalden decided to liberate themselves from all feudal obligations and become free.

On Aug. 1, 1291, the elders of these three small states met on a tiny heath known as the Rutli on the shores of the Lake of Lucerne and negotiated an eternal pact' which recognized their right to local self-government, and pledged one another assistance against any encroachment upon these rights. The pact was the beginning of the Everlasting League' and the foundation of the Swiss Confederation.

APPENZELL

Located in northeast Switzerland, completely surrounded by the canton of St. Gall. The name was derived from "Abbot's Cell". Achieved independence from the abbots of St. Gall in the period 1377/1411. Divided by religious differences into two half cantons, Ausser-Rhoden (Protestant) and Inner-Rhoden (Catholic). Both were joined to the Canton to Santis 1797-1803, but regained their independent status in 1803.

BASEL

BISHOPRIC

A bishopric in northwest Switzerland, founded in the 5th century. The first coinage was c.1000AD. During the Reformation Basel became Protestant and the bishop resided henceforth in the town of Porrentruy. The Congress of Vienna gave the territories of the Bishopric to Bern. Today they form the Canton Jura and the French speaking part of Bern.

RULERS
Johann Conrad II von Reinach-Hirzbach, 1705-1737
Joseph Sigismund von Roggenbach, 1782-1793

BEROMUENSTER

An abbey founded in 720 by Bero, the count of Lenzburg, in the canton of Luzern.

In 1720 the abbey struck quarter and half thalers, to commemorate the 1000th Anniversary of the founding of the abbey, depicting St. Michael slaying the dragon.

NEUCHATEL

Nuenberg

A canton on the west central border of Switzerland. The first coins (bracteates) were struck in the 11th century. They were under Prussian rule from 1707 to 1806. France occupied the canton from 1806-1815. They reverted to Prussia until 1857, when they became a full member of the Swiss Confederation.

REICHENAU-TAMINS

The Barony of Reichenau-Tamins is located at the confluence of the Vorderrhein and Hinterrhein Rivers. In the first half of the 18th Century it was ruled by the elder line of the Schauenstein-Ehrenfels family. On the death of their last male heir, Thomas Franz, the Barony passed to the family Buol-Schauenstein.

The mint right was granted in 1709. Coinage was only produced from 1718-1748.

UNTERWALDEN

Subsilvania

A canton in central Switzerland, which was one of the three original cantons, which became the Swiss Confederation in 1291. It is made up of two half cantons - Nidwalden and Obwalden. They had their own coinage beginning in the 1500s.

The Swiss Confederation, located in central Europe north of Italy and south of Germany, has an area of 15,941 sq. mi. (41,290 sq. km.) and a population of *6.6 million. Capital: Bern. The economy centers about a well developed manufacturing industry. Machinery, chemicals, watches and clocks, and textiles are exported.

Switzerland, the habitat of lake dwellers in prehistoric times, was peopled by the Celtic Helvetians when Julius Caesar made it a part of the Roman Empire in 58 B.C. After the decline of Rome, Switzerland was invaded by Teutonic tribes, who established small temporal holdings which in the Middle Ages, became a federation of fiefs of the Holy Roman Empire. As a nation, Switzerland originated in 1291 when the districts of Nidwalden, Schwyz and Uri united to defeat Austria and attain independence as the Swiss Confederation. After acquiring new cantons in the 14th century, Switzerland was made independent from the Holy Roman Empire by the 1648 Treaty of Westphalia. The revolutionary armies of Napoleonic France occupied Switzerland and set up the Helvetian Republic, 1798-1803. After the fall of Napoleon, the Congress of Vienna, 1815, recognized the independence of Switzerland and guaranteed its neutrality. The Swiss Constitutions of 1848 and 1874 established a union modeled upon that of the United States.

The Syrian Arab Republic, located in the Near East at the eastern end of the Mediterranean Sea, has an area of 71,498 sq. mi. (185,180 sq. km.) and a population of *12million. Capital: Greater Damascus. Agriculture and animal breeding are the chief industries. Cotton, crude oil and livestock are exported.

Ancient Syria, a land bridge connecting Europe, Africa and Asia, has spent much of its history in thrall to the conqueror's whim. Its subjection by Egypt about 1500 B.C. was followed by successive conquests by the Hebrews, Phoenicians, Babylonians, Assyrians, Persians, Macedonians, Romans, Byzantines and finally, in 636 A.D., by the Moslems. The Arabs made Damascus, one of the oldest continuously inhabited cities of the world, the trade center and capital of an empire stretching from India to Spain. In 1516, following the total destruction of Damascus by the Mongols of Tamerlane, Syria fell to the Ottoman Turks and remained a part of Turkey until the end of World War I. The League of Nations gave France a mandate to the Levant states of Syria and Lebanon in 1920. In 1930, following a series of uprisings, France recognized Syria as an independent republic, but still subject to the mandate. Lebanon became fully independent on Nov. 22, 1943, and Syria on Jan. 1,1944.

Tibet, an autonomous region of China located in central Asia between the Himalayan and Kunlun Mts. has an area of 471,660 sq. mi. (1,221,599 sq. km.) and a population of*1.9 million. Capital: Lhasa. The economy is based on agriculture and livestock raising. Wool, livestock, salt and hides are exported.

Lamaism, a form of Buddhism, developed in Tibet in the 8th century. From that time until the 1900s, the Tibetan rulers virtually isolated the country from the outside world. The British in India achieved some influence in the early 20th century. British troops were sent with the Young husband mission to extend trade in the north of India in December 1903; leaving during September 1904. The 13th dalai lama had fled to Urga where he remained until 1907. In April 1905 a revolt broke out and spread through southwestern Szechuan and northwestern Yunnan. Chao Erh-feng was appointed to subdue this rebellion and entered Lhasa in January 1910 with 2,000 troops. The dalai lama fled to India until he returned in June 1912., The British encouraged Tibet to declare its independence from China in 1913. The Communist revolution in China marked a new era in Tibetan history. Chinese Communist troops invaded Tibet in Oct., 1950. After a token resistance, Tibet signed an agreement with China in which China recognized the spiritual and temporal leadership of the dalai lama, and Tibet recognized the suzerainty of China. In 1959, a nationwide revolt triggered by Communist-initiated land reform broke out. The revolt was ruthlessly crushed. The dalai lama fled to India, and on Sept. 1,1965, the Chinese made Tibet an autonomous region of China.

The first coins to circulate in Tibet were those of neighboring Nepal from about 1570. Shortly after 1720, the Nepalese government began striking specific issues for use in Tibet. These coins had a lower silver content than those struck for use in Nepal and were exchanged with the Tibetans for an equal weight in silver bullion. Around 1763 the Tibetans struck their own coins for the first time in history. The number of coins struck at that time must have been very small. Larger quantities of coins were struck by the Tibetan government mint, which opened in 1791 with the permission of the Chinese. Operations of this mint however were suspended two years later. The Chinese opened a second mint in Lhasa in 1792. It produced a coinage until 1836. Shortly thereafter, the Tibetan mint was reopened and the government of Tibet continued to strike coins until 1953.

DATING

Based on the Tibetan calendar, Tibetan coins are dated by the cycle which contains 60 years. To calculate the western date use the following formula: Number of cycles -1, x 60 + number of years + 1026.Example 15th cycle 25th year = 1891 AD. Example: 15th cycle, 25th year 15 - 1 x 60 + 25 + 1026 = 1891AD.

13/40 = 1786 14/40 = 1846 15/40 = 1906

Certain Sino-Tibetan issues are dated in the year of reign of the Emperor of China.

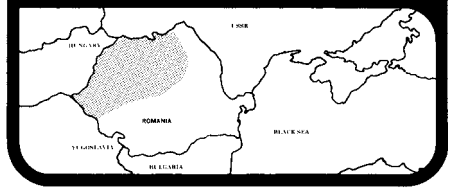
TRANSYLVANIA



Transylvania (Cibin, Siebenburgen) is the plateau region of northwestern Romania, formerly part of Ancient Dacia, a region occupied by the Romans under Emperor Trajan in 100 AD and abandoned to the Goths in 271 AD under Aurelianus. The Romanized population maintained its Latin speech and Christian identity.

In 896 the Hungarians settled into the Carpathian basin, this included Transylvania. While the region remained an autonomous principality, mercenary Saxons enforced the suzerainty of the King of Hungary in exchange for land. When the Hungarian army was defeated by the advancing Turks at Monacs in 1526, the country was divided into three parts under protection of the Sultan.The center was occupied by the Turks, the West by the Hungary Kingdom under the Hapsburgs and Transylvania in the East which became a principality in 1540.Holy Roman Emperor Rudolf II seized control of the territory in 1604 after the murder of Michael the Brave of Wallachia, who had briefly united the Romanian principalities. In 1605 the Diet elected Stephen Bocskaias prince. After George Rakoczi II was defeated in war with Poland, the Turks were able to intervene, deposing the prince and appointing their own vassals. After the defeat of the Ottoman Turks in 1683, the Transylvanian princes then looked to Austria for guidance and protection.

The last Turkish vassal abdicated in 1697, and with the Orthodox Romanians recognizing the authority of the Pope, the Greek-Catholic, or Uniate Church is created. Under these circumstance, and the treaty of Szatmar in 1711, Transylvania was absorbed into the vast Holy Roman Empire. Transylvania continued to be a part of Hungary until the end of World War I. In 1918, Romania occupied Transylvania.

GROSSWARDEIN

The fortress of Grosswardein (Nagyvarad, Oradea in Romania) was a strategically important stronghold in Transylvania.during the early 18th century.

Hapsburgs gained control over Hungary and Transylvania by the Treaty of Karlowitz on January 26, 1699. The local nobility began a revolt in 1703, aiming to free Transylvania from Austrian domination. Francis II Rakoczi was elected as Prince on July 6, 1704. This movement was joined by some cities and intitally enjoyed a broad base of support among the peasants. During this rebellion the fortress of Grosswardein was under control of Austrian commander Stefan von Becker. Between 1706-08, rebel forces of Rakoczi besieged the fortress. Short of food and without money, the Austrians melted all the copper objects of the inhabitants and issued an emergency coinage – nummi obsidionales.

The Republic of Tunisia, located on the northern coast of Africa between Algeria and Libya, has an area of 63,170 sq. mi. (163,610 sq. km.) and a population of *7.9 million. Capital: Tunis. Agriculture is the backbone of the economy. Crude oil, phosphates, olive oil, and wine are exported.

Tunisia, settled by the Phoenicians in the 12th century B.C., was the center of the seafaring Carthaginian Empire. After the total destruction of Carthage, Tunisia became part of Rome's African province. It remained a part of the Roman Empire (except for the 439-533 interval of Vandal conquest) until taken by the Arabs, 648, who administered it until the Turkish invasion of 1570. Under Turkish control, the public revenue was heavily dependent upon the piracy of Mediterranean shipping, an endeavor that wasn't abandoned until 1819 when a coalition of powers threatened appropriate reprisal. Deprived of its major source of income, Tunisia underwent a financial regression that ended in bankruptcy, enabling France to establish a protectorate over the country in 1881. National agitation and guerrilla fighting forced France to grant Tunisia internal autonomy in 1955 and to recognize Tunisian independence on March 20, 1956. Tunisia abolished the monarchy and established a republic on July 25, 1957.

TUNIS

Tunis, the capital and major seaport of Tunisia, existed in the Carthaginian era, but its importance dates only from the Moslem conquest, following which it became a major center of Arab power and prosperity. Spain seized it in 1535, lost it in 1564, retook it in 1573 and ceded it to the Turks in 1574. Thereafter the history of Tunis merged with that of Tunisia.

TURKEY

a map of The Mints of the Ottoman Empire

The Republic of Turkey, a parliamentary democracy of the Near East located partially in Europe and partially in Asia between the Black and the Mediterranean Seas, has an area of 301,382 sq. mi. (780,580 sq. km.) and a population of *55.4 million. Capital: Ankara. Turkey exports cotton, hazelnuts, and tobacco, and enjoys a virtual monopoly in meerschaum.

The Ottoman Turks, a tribe from Central Asia, first appeared in the early 13th century, and by the 17th century had established the Ottoman Empire which stretched from the Persian Gulf to the southern frontier of Poland, and from the Caspian Sea to the Algerian plateau. The defeat of the Turkish navy by the Holy League in 1571, and of the Turkish forces besieging Vienna in 1683, began the steady decline of the Ottoman Empire which, accelerated by the rise of nationalism, contracted its European border, and by the end of World War I deprived it of its Arab lands. The present Turkish boundaries were largely fixed by the Treaty of Lausanne in 1923. The sultanate and caliphate, the political and spiritual ruling institutions of the old empire, were separated and the sultanate abolished in 1922. On Oct. 29, 1923, Turkey formally became a republic.

RULERS

Mustafa II, AH1106-1115/1695-1703AD
Ahmed III, AH1115-1143/1703-1730AD

The reign of Ahmed III falls into the so-called "Tulip Era" of the Ottoman Empire. It is so significant that most of his coinage bears the tulip design right of the Toughra or somewhere on the coin.

Mahmud I, AH1143-1168/1730-1754AD
Osman III, AH1168-1171/1754-1757AD
Mustafa III, AH1171-1187/1757-1774AD

5 Para = Beshlik (Beshparalik)
10 Para = Onluk
20 Para = Yirmilik
30 Para = Zolota
40 Para = Kurush (Piastre)
1-1/2 Kurush (Piastres) = Altmishlik
2-1/2 Kurush (Piastres) = Yuzluk
3 Kurush (Piastres) = Uechlik
5 Kurush (Piastres) = Beshlik
6 Kurush (Piastres) = Altilik

Gold Coinage

100 Kurush (Piastres) = 1 Turkish Pound (Lira)

NOTE: This system has remained essentially unchanged since its introduction by Ahmad III in 1688, except that the Asper and Para have long since ceased to be coined. The Piastre, established as a crown-sized silver coin approximately equal to the French Ecu of Louis XIV, has shrunk to a tiny copper coin, worth about 1/15 of a U.S. cent. Since the establishment of the Republic in 1923, the Turkish terms, Kurus and Lira, have replaced the European names Piastres and Turkish Pounds.

MONETARY SYSTEM

Silver Coinage

40 Para = 1 Kurush (Piastre)
2 Kurush (Piastres) = 1 Ikilik

INITIAL LETTERS

Letters, symbols and numerals were placed on coins during the reigns of Mustafa II (1695) until Selim III(1789). They have been observed in various positions but the most common position being over bin in the third row of the obverse.

The United States of America as politically organized, under the Articles of Confederation consisted of the 13 original British-American colonies; New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and Maryland. Clustered along the eastern seaboard of North American between the forests of Maine and the marshes of Georgia. Under the Article of Confederation, the United States had no national capital: Philadelphia, where the "United States in Congress Assembled", was the "seat of government". The population during this political phase of America's history (1781-1789) was about 3 million, most of whom lived on self-sufficient family farms. Fishing, lumbering and the production of grains for export were major economic endeavors. Rapid strides were also being made in industry and manufacturing by 1775, the (then) colonies were accounting for one-seventh of the world's production of raw iron.

On the basis of the voyage of John Cabot to the North American mainland in 1497, England claimed the entire continent. The first permanent English settlement was established at Jamestown, Virginia, in 1607. France and Spain also claimed extensive territory in North America. At the end of the French and Indian Wars (1763), England acquired all of the territory east of the Mississippi River, including East and West Florida. From 1776 to 1781, the States were governed by the Continental Congress. From 1781 to 1789, they were organized under the Articles of Confederation, during which period the individual States had the right to issue money. Independence from Great Britain was attained with the American Revolution in 1776. The Constitution organized and governs the present United States. It was ratified on Nov. 21, 1788.

MACHIN'S MILL

KM# 13 • Copper • Note: Crude, lightweight imitations of the British Halfpenny were struck at Machin's Mill in large quantities bearing the obverse legends: GEORGIVS II REX, GEORGIVS III REX, and GEORGIUS III REX, with the BRITANNIA reverse. There are many different mulings. Plain crosses in the shield of Britannia are noticeable on high grade pieces, unlike common British made imitations, which usually have outlined crosses in the shield. Some Machin's Mill varieties are very rare.

KM# 32 • 26.9600 g., 0.8920 Silver, 0.7731 oz. ASW, 39-40 mm. • Obv. Legend LIBERTY Rev. Legend: UNITED STATES OF AMERICA Designer: Robert Scot Notes: The 1798 "knob 9" variety has a serif on the lower left of the 9 in the date. The 1798 varieties are distinguished by the number of arrows held by the eagle on the reverse and the number of berries on the olive branch. On the 1798 "high-8" variety, the 8 in the date is higher than the other numberals. The 1799 varieties are distinguished by the number and positioning of the stars on the obverse and by the size of the berries in the olive branch on the reverse. On the 1700 "irregular date" variety, the first 9 in the date is smaller than the other numerals. Some varieties of the 1800 strikes had letters in the legend cut twice into the dies; as between the numerals in the date are wider than other varieties and the 8 is lower than the other numerals. The 1800 "small berries" variety refers to the size of the berries in the olive branch on the reverse. The 1800 "12 arrows" and "10 arrows" varieties refer to the number of arrows held by the eagle. The 1800 "Americai" variety appears to have the faint outline of an "I" after "America" in the reverse legend.

In 207 B.C. a Chinese general set up the Kingdom of Nam-Viet on the Red River. This kingdom was over thrown by the Chinese under the Han Dynasty in 111 B.C., where upon the country became a Chinese province under the name of Giao-Chi, which was later changed to Annam or peaceful or pacified South. Chinese rule was maintained until 968, when the Vietnamese became independent until 1407 when China again invaded Viet Nam. The Chinese were driven out in 1428 and the country became independent and named Dai-Viet. Gia Long renamed the country Dai Namin 1802.

After the French conquered Dai Nam, they split the country into three parts. The South became the Colony of Cochin china; the North became the Protectorate of Tonkin; and the central became the Protectorate of Annam. The emperors were permitted to have their capital in Hue and to produce small quantities of their coins, presentation pieces, and bullion bars. Annam had an area of 57,840 sq. mi. (141,806 sq. km.) and a population of about 6 million. Chief products of the area are silk, cinnamon and rice. There are important mineral deposits in the mountainous inland.

Cyclical dates consist of a pair of characters one of which indicates the animal associated with that year. Every 60 years, this pair of characters is repeated. The first character of a cyclical date corresponds to a character in the first row of the chart above. The second where a cyclical date is used, the abbreviation CD appears before the A.D. date.

The Windward Islands (Isles du Vent) make up the southern chain of islands in the Lesser Antilles. Visited by Columbus on his 1493 and 1502 voyages. Various parts of the islands were occupied by France beginning in 1635.

The islands were developed for their strategic location in the scheme of a French empire. They were lost to the British in the 7 Years War but returned to France by the Treaty of Paris that ended the war in 1763. Following the Napoleonic Wars most of the islands were returned to Great Britain.

One of the oldest centers of civilization in the Middle East, Yemen was once part of the Minaean Kingdom and of the ancient Kingdom of Sheba, after which it was captured successively by Egyptians, Ethiopians and Romans. It was converted to Islam in 628 A.D. and administered as a caliphate until 1538, when it came under Ottoman occupation in 1849. The second Ottoman occupation which began in 1872 was maintained until 1918 when autonomy was achieved through revolution.

Images. Descriptions. Prices.

Standard Catalog of® World Coins 1701-1800, 5th Edition, is the world guide to coins of the 18th Century. With almost 20,000 images, detailed descriptions and up-to-date market prices, it is the only illustrated price guide for all coins minted from 1701 to 1800.

The editors and market analysts at Krause Publications bring more than 35 years of research involving contributors from around the world to this authoritative catalog.

This 5th edition features:

- Complete price revisions
- Significant price increases for coins of Austria and Hungary
- Expanded and improved coin images
- Extensive additions to listings for German States and Italian States
- Dramatic changes in pricing for gold and crowns
